PARKER PLEADS FOR PREPAREDNESS

Likens it to Fire Insurance, a Protection But Not an Invitation—Interesting and Timely Address to Kingston Women's Federation.

The chapel of the First Dutch Church was filled with women and men on Saturday afternoon, to hear Judge Alton B. Parker, address the women of the Federation of Women's Clubs. Inasmuch as the speaker had to leave town during the afternoon, it was voted to digress from the regular order of procedure at the general Federation meeting, and leave the business of the meeting, together with reports, until after the address. In the absence of the president of the Federation, Mrs. C. K. Moulton, and also of the vice president, Miss Georgia Deudney, both of whom were unavoidably out of town, Mrs. Van Hovenberg, former president, presided, and early turned the meeting over to the Monday Club, (the entertaining body). Mrs. De La Vergne, president of the Monday Club, presided, and the honor fell by the Monday Club being able to present, as the speaker of the afternoon, one who had become so famous throughout the country, yet one who though not seen from day to day about our streets as in former years, was highly esteemed by his former friends in Kingston, who counted it a privilege to have him speak to them. She then introduced Judge Parker.

The judge said it gave him great pleasure to see so many of whom were his friends, even though he did not meet them day by day. Since the Monday Club had been spending the past year in the study of Russia, it had been suggested that he tell his audience somewhat of a trip to, and visit in Russia, made by him a few years ago. In order to do this he stopped at Rosemount, which had been closed for the winter, to look up such data as would refresh his memory of the visit which had been not without considerable interest. In the absence of Mrs. Parker, he failed to find the desired papers, parenthetically it was perhaps as well considering the timely and able address he did make on a most important topic of today and here. Since he could not at the time speak of Russia, he would speak of a matter which might be of much more real service today.

A year ago last June delegates from the United States and Canada met at a great conference in this country. Governors of states, men of prominence from every state in the Dominion of Canada, gathered to arrange a program for the celebration of a century of peace along the greatest international boundary line in the world, some 3,840 miles long, and that without a fortification, a gunboat, a soldier or even police protection. The conference was called, not so much to strengthen the relationship between the two countries, as in the hope that through such a celebration as was planned, the masses of the people might be interested, and the people of the world might learn that it was possible to maintain international boundaries without war. During the hundred years of peace, twenty-seven serious controversies had arisen between the two countries, any one of which was large enough to precipitate war if it had been wanted. But all of those differences were settled either by arbitration or treaty. And this celebration was planned, was to be a looking forward, beyond our times to the future when intelligent Christianity all over the world should adopt the same policies.

At the time of the convention mentioned, there was not a war cloud in the sky, yet within six weeks from that time, six nations were at each others' throats. Since then 10,000,000 men have been killed, wounded or taken prisoner, and now thirteen nations are partitioning in the greatest war of the world. The best of the young manhood of these warring countries has been sacrificed. How can it be replaced? It never can be. And the numbers of men gone crazy or whose health has been permanently undermined, can not be imagined. Yet we never think of the mothers, of what they are suffering. They have given one, two, three, all of their sons to the cause of their nation's honor. "God grant," said the speaker, "that a like fate may never overtake our sons, grandsons, and it need never overtake them. Let us insure ourselves against such catastrophe." "We insure our lives, not because we expect to die soon, or be killed, but because we wish to protect against such an event, when it does come, the mother, wife, sister, child. And we sacrifice much in order to pay the necessary premium on such insurance. So, too, we insure our buildings, not because we expect them to burn, but to protect ourselves if they should burn. And we should protect ourselves against war, by fortifications, with submarines, by war planes, and with troops, so that none dare to come and make war against us." (Applause.) "But it will cost money! So it will. Any insurance calls for some struggle, but we have money. There is $187,000,000,000 in these United States, more than Germany, Great Britain and Ireland together possessed before they entered into this war. What if we do have to go down into the national treasury to take care of our sons and grandsons of the future? What is money against human life? More or less?"

Judge Parker deemed it wonderful that he had not yet learned our lesson after five wars in which we were unprepared, and the audience was re-

ZEPPELINS SEEKING BRITISH FLEET

Maneuvers During the Raid on Sunday Indicate an Effort to Locate Britain's Big Ships, of the Home Fleet.

London, March 6.—The German admiralty is feeling with Zeppelins in an effort to locate the British grand fleet. This is the belief which exists in England today as a result of the queer behavior of the Zeppelins which took part in Sunday's raid over the north and east coast. The German balloons penetrated far to the north and followed a zig zag course which, at times, took them far out over the sea. It is believed to be the hope of the German admiralty of locating the grand fleet and then attacking the dreadnoughts with bombs. The whereabouts of the high seas fleet has been a mystery since the early days of the war. It is known that the coasts are guarded by speedy cruisers and scouts and destroyers but the superdreadnoughts and battle cruisers of the home fleet have been kept hidden. It is possible that they may be in well protected harbors on the west coast but many think they are in northern waters. This supposition receives some support from the fact that many merchant ships which have been seized were taken into the port of Kirkwall, Scotland. The raid on Sunday was the thirtieth over English territory by the Germans since the attack on Dover on December 24, 1914. Two hundred and thirty-four persons, many of them women and children, have been killed during the raids.

JUST TO KEEP CROWD AWAY.

That is Why Frankie Moran Charges Quarter Admission.

New York, March 6.—Frank Moran has followed the lead of Jess Willard in charging 25 cents to see the training stunts. It was not the need of the coin that decided Moran. Oh, no. It was to keep the big crowd away so as not to interfere with the Pittsburgher's training. Both the champion and near-champion were out on the road early today. Jess went through his usual trot around Central Park. Frank hiked a few miles over the country roads in the Bronx.

Schermerhorn Case Adjourned.

The adjourned case of Frank Schermerhorn, 13 years old, charged with shooting Abie Bacharach with a Flobert rifle, was called this morning in recorder's court before Recorder Lang, and another adjournment was taken for a week to await the outcome of Abie's injuries. The bond furnished by the boy's father was continued. Andrew J. Cook, of Van Etten & Cook, was in court to look after the boy's interest. It was stated this morning that the condition of Abie, who is still at the Ben. Indine Sanitarium, is slowly improving and that he would probably be removed to his home within the next ten days. The bullet is still in his body and as long as it does not retard his recovery it will not be removed. The grand jury met this afternoon, but it is not thought that they will consider the case unless Abie has sufficiently recovered to appear before that body and give his evidence.

Where Pictures Were Taken.

The scene of the movie play, "The Old Homestead," shown last week at the Kingston opera house were taken on the farm of Charles Wood at Winchester, New Hampshire. Mr. Wood is a brother of the late Miss Nellie Wood, who for many years was a member of the faculty of old Kingston Academy.

Teachers' Training Class.

The Teachers' Training Class of the Kingston Sunday School Association will meet at the Y. M. C. A. this evening at 7:30 o'clock. At the request of several people who last Monday listened to the address of Dr. Leeper, he will again speak at the meeting this evening.

Welsh and Wolgast Ready.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 6.—With both fighters in prime condition, Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, and Ad Wolgast, former champion, awaited the gong for their ten round bout here tonight. Welsh is favorite in the betting.

Rights of Way Secured.

The rights of way for the Naponech-Montela state road which the supervisors' committee failed to secure has been secured and the necessary and proper steps taken to call the board of supervisors together to show cause for the action in trying to rob us of our road.—Ellenville Press.

No Foreign Invasion of Links.

London, March 6.—British golf professionals will not invade the United States this year. It was announced today that Vardon, Taylor and Braid had abandoned their projected American tour as unwise.

WHAT MEN BELIEVE IN REGARD TO HELL

Majority of Those Replying to Dr. Ellis's Questions Express Positive Belief in Future Punishment, Minority Disbelieve or Doubt.

Sunday evening the pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church analyzed the answers of the men of Kingston to his question, "Do Men Generally Believe in Future Punishment?" Eighteen answered positively yes. Eleven of them giving reasons or explanations religious and moral. Six answered no. Six more answered no, two expressing the conviction that men believed in what they wanted to believe irrespective of what was fact or to their true interest. Five expressed the opinion that men are indifferent, as a rule, to the subject. Two while answering other questions failed to answer this one.

In his remarks on the subject the pastor observed that he held no brief for hell. That it was no pleasure to consider the possibilities, but that the belief in future punishment was one of the oldest and most widespread of human convictions. He instanced the beliefs of the American Indians. The Ancient Persians, who believed that the wicked would be condemned to toil under ground.

The belief of Egyptians indicated in the "Book of the Dead," the Hindoo teachings from earliest times of reward or punishment through transmigration of the soul, of the Greek and Roman beliefs and the teachings of Mohammedans, who hold that God has by predestination determined half of humanity for hell saying, "And I Care Not," and half for heaven, "And I Care Not."

Three objections to future punishment stood out in the answers received. The term future punishment as defined by one being, "The sense of a revenged being preparing a place to send his recalcitrant offspring." Another, men "cannot understand being subjected to the laws of heredity and environment, why they should be punished for moral delinquencies. The third, that men think they receive their punishment in this world."

The pastor in further consideration of the subject, indicated that the idea of future punishment is closely if not inseparably connected with three convictions. First.—The conviction of a future life. If one's ideas are material. If the present world circumscribes his thought and life, the question of future punishment is of no moment, but if there is conviction or hope of a future life, the question arises at once, where, and how, and under what conditions? In heaven? If there is to be a heaven the human mind at once conceives of its opposite.

Second.—In connection with the idea of God. God has without doubt been most shamefully misrepresented by Dante and Dore in their descriptions and pictures of Hell. Jonathan Edwards as well as his "Sinners in the Hands of an Angry God," failed to help to an understanding of God, not only, but led to a revolt of many minds against things spiritual. Nevertheless, the conviction of the holiness and mercy and goodness of God inevitably lead men to consider what should be done to those who are unfaithful to divine goodness.

Third.—There is the conviction that punishment must have its adequate place in a moral government. Punishment may be vindictive. It may be exemplary to vindicate and establish government, it may be remedial. Any worthy idea of punishment must be connected with the attainment of justice and ultimate good. Vindictive punishment is no longer approved in civilized communities. In our prisons and prison systems we are learning that it is not sufficient to mete out so much punishment for so much crime, quid pro quo, but the effort is made to reform criminals and to fit them for a return to honorable and useful life. We must not sink the idea divine government below the best human moral standards.

The supreme question is, do we dwell in a moral order—are we moral beings? If, as has been indicated, men are "subject to the laws of heredity and environment," they should not be punished as responsible moral beings in this world or the next. If heredity and environment control actions we should never blame the man who fails to pay his bills, or the man who robs us.

But men do not act on this principle. Now we believe in the fact that we live in a moral order, are responsible moral beings, but we do not find that men receive punishment or vindication of moral goodness in the present world. The drunkard and the licentious do in a measure reap the fruits of evil living, but not always. The dishonest grow wealthy and enjoy life. The innocent children and the wives suffer untold evil, and the godly are punished for the profligate's sins. Therefore, if there is to be a rectification, it must be in a future state.

We believe in a holy, just, loving and wise God, the ruler of the universe. We cannot believe Him vindictive or cruel, but that all punishment will be for good, for the good of the punished and for the good of all moral beings. How much punishment, how long? We must be content to let God know some things which we do not. Shall not the judge of all the earth do right?

Optimistic Thought.

It is not the greatness of a man's means that makes him independent so much as the smallness of his wants.

DR. J. GRANT LYMAN AND WIFE. DR. LYMAN IS STILL SOLVANT ASSERTS LYMAN, HELD ON SWINDLING CHARGE.

New York, March 6.—Dr. John Grant Lyman, held in the Tombs under $100,000 bail by Federal Judge Dayton and charged with using the mails to defraud in a stock brokerage business which he conducted under the name of J. H. Putnam & Co., asserts that he is not bankrupt. Since his capture at St. Petersburg, Fla., and his return to this city, bankruptcy proceedings have been instituted against him.

"These bankruptcy proceedings are all bosh," Dr. Lyman said. "How can a man be examined in bankruptcy and a receiver appointed for his business when that business is thoroughly solvent? If they can prove that I am a bankrupt I'll give the receiver all possible help. The burden of the proof rests with them."

Dr. Lyman was asked if he wanted to finish out his unexpired term under the conviction in California before making his flight here. He said he wanted to get that California term out of the way as soon as possible. "Bankruptcy proceedings are very long-drawn-out affairs," he said. "They may take years. I would prefer to go right on to Atlanta Prison now, and then let them bring me on here to examine me in bankruptcy, just as they did Morse. I will be where they can put their hands on me in that event."

Just before returning to the Tombs Lyman's wife brought him two suit cases filled with fresh clothes. The postal authorities who captured him assert that they found a full sea of highly tempered little saws among his effects. These saws were so highly tempered that the post office inspector said he was able to saw through an iron cuspidor in a minute and a half.

UNCLE SAM FINDS HARGEN IS ALIVE

Lighthouse Inspector Still on This Side of Styx up to Saturday, is Washington Report—Officials to Probe Origin of "Death" Story.

That Stanley Hargen is correct in his statement to The Freeman that he is not dead was borne out today in a dispatch from Washington where the lighthouse service, department of commerce, stated to The Freeman correspondent that Hargen was alive up to Saturday. This official statement disposes effectually of reports of Hargen's death written to the widow, who resides in this city, from Florida where Hargen is stationed at Key West as a lighthouse inspector. The dispatch from Washington follows:

"Department of commerce has received no notice of Inspector Hargen's death, reports him on duty at Key West. Department will start an investigation into death reports." So the mystery of the death message to the widow will probably be cleared up in due course of time. In the meantime, Hargen's word to his friends that the tropical life is most enjoyable at this time must be accepted as bearing out that he not only is not dead but is enjoying the best of health and spirits at the last writing.

BAKER TO BECOME SECRETARY OF WAR

Washington, March 6.—Newton D. Baker, former mayor of Cleveland, will succeed Lindley M. Garrison as secretary of war.

When Secretary to the President Tumulty was asked today whether stories from Cleveland that the appointment had been tendered to former Mayor Baker, he at first refused to answer. When told later that Mr. Baker himself admitted that he had accepted the appointment, Mr. Tumulty said: "If Mayor Baker has accepted his nomination is certain. The president has tendered the appointment to him. It is likely that the nomination will be sent to the senate within a day or two."

Asleep in a Snow Bank.

James Sullivan, a stranger, wandered into town on Saturday looking for work. Instead of finding work he accumulated a jag of such proportions that he retired for the night in a snow bank. He was found early Sunday morning by a pedestrian who notified police headquarters and Policeman Daun was sent to the scene and rescued Sullivan who was unable to give his name or where he hailed from. If he had not been found he would have frozen to death. This morning Recorder Lang gave Sullivan one hour to get out of town. He got.

Injured by a Fall.

William Clark was conveyed from No. 117 North Front street to the Benedictine Sanitarium in the city ambulance on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Clark was injured by a fall in the barn of Willis Roe.

ADMIRAL'S TALK TO SUNDAY SCHOOL

At the Sunday school services Sunday at the First Dutch Reformed Church the Christian flag was presented to the Sunday school and Admiral Higginson gave a very instructive and entertaining talk to the scholars.

The flag is a beautiful affair, known to everyone who has spent years on a battleship as has Admiral Higginson, and no one could have been chosen to make the presentation address who better knew the meaning of the flag. The flag is composed of a white body with a red cross upon a blue field. The flag has been adopted by the Christian Church and is used upon a ship while services are being held. The Christian flag and no other is allowed to be hoisted above the stars and stripes.

Admiral Higginson told of many incidents in his career and spoke principally of incidents which occurred at the outbreak of the Civil War just after his graduation from Annapolis and while he was stationed a midshipman aboard a battleship at the mouth of the Mississippi. When Admiral Farragut was ordered to capture New Orleans and his fleet sailed up the river the men on board the ships could look over the levees and see the slaves at work on the plantations. But one dared look at the ships as they sailed by, and he was a small boy who for a time raced along with the ships. Suddenly he stopped and raising his shirt the sailors saw the American flag wrapped about the boy's body. Had this been discovered by persons on shore the boy would undoubtedly have been shot. The lad was given three rousing cheers by the men on the ships for his loyalty to the Stars and Stripes.

Missionary Meeting Postponed.

On account of the men's dinner to be given by the ladies of the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Tuesday, the regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society has been postponed until Wednesday, when the ladies will meet with Mrs. Ellis at the manse and continue the study of "In Red Man's Land." Papers by Mrs. Louise Patchen and Miss Mary Basten. The annual election of officers will also take place.

War Stamps in Foreclosure.

Through a decision rendered in the United States court by Judge Chetfield, referees in foreclosure proceedings will be compelled to place war tax stamps upon their deeds the same as other grantors.

Chicken Thief Punished.

Clarence Johnston, colored, was sentenced to five years in Sing Sing prison Saturday at Goshen for chicken stealing. Johnston had previously been convicted of a dozen misdemeanors and one felony.

Their Reasons.

When a man is jealous of a woman it is because he loves her. When a woman is jealous of a man it is because her monopoly of him is threatened.

DAY'S WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE

Washington—As soon as Congress disposes of proposed legislation warning Americans not to ride on armed merchant vessels, President Wilson plans to make the position of the United States on defense armament for merchant ships plain to all belligerents.

London—Twelve persons killed and 33 injured in Zeppelin raid over northeast coast of England last night. Three Zeppelins took part in raid. Forty bombs dropped. British steamer Masina sunk by submarine.

Paris—Violent artillery duels raging Verdun region. No infantry engagements. French batteries bombarding German points of passage. Also bombarded German positions in Argonne.

Berlin—British attacks in La Basse region repulsed. North of Verdun no infantry fighting of importance. Over 900 more prisoners taken.

Petrograd—Russian torpedo boats bombarded Trebizond, Turkey's important fortified port in Asia Minor. Several Turkish ships destroyed.

Constantinople—Heavy fighting in progress in Mesopotamia between Turks and forces trying to relieve British soldiers besieged in Kut-el-Amara.

DAY'S DOINGS IN CONGRESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, March 6.—Senate and house met at noon.

Senate continued debate on the Shields general dam bill.

Admiral Fletcher, commander-in-chief of Atlantic fleet, reappeared before house naval affairs committee.

House rules committee held executive session.

COUNTY LABORATORY HAS NEW SERUM

Kingston One of Few Places in Which Diagnosis Can Be Made and New Serum Obtained for Pneumonia Treatment.

As announced in The Freeman a few weeks ago some very encouraging work has been done recently in the treatment and cure of pneumonia. Dr. Rufus Cole and his associates at Rockefeller Hospital, New York city, have been making a special study of this dread disease and have made some important discoveries in regard to it. They found that pneumonia should be differentiated into four main classes or types. These types differ materially in frequency of occurrence and severity of the disease. By certain tests of the sputum from a patient with pneumonia, a properly equipped bacteriologist can determine the type of pneumonia the patient is afflicted with. Further than this they have made a serum for treating cases of Type I. Statistics of treatment with this serum of cases of pneumonia caused by Type I have shown striking reductions in mortality and marked lessening in severity and length of the disease.

In the entire state of New York in 1914 there were reported 8,750 deaths due to pneumonia of all types. Probably one-third, or about 2,900 of these deaths were caused by organisms of Type I. An analysis of the mortality figures for the city of New York shows that the greatest number of deaths occurred during middle age, approximately twice as many men die from this cause as women. These figures are significant and the importance of these recent discoveries cannot be estimated.

With the exception of Rockefeller Hospital, where the work originated, the state laboratory in Albany and laboratories in Buffalo, Syracuse and Rochester were the only places in the state where the diagnosis of sputum could be made and the serum obtained. The Ulster County Laboratory has been added to the list and is prepared for this work and supplied with serum. The serum should be given as early in the course of the disease as possible so the advantage of local facilities is evident.

Dr. Raymond Sanderson, county bacteriologist, has recently spent considerable time at Rockefeller Hospital and the state laboratory studying methods and cases and is very enthusiastic over the results. J. G. Nathurst of Mingo Hollow, as noted in The Freeman a few days ago, has returned from Rockefeller Hospital, where he was cured of Type I pneumonia, and is warmly praising the treatment.

Charged That Basch Was Cruel.

The trial of Morris Basch on a charge of cruelty to a horse was again adjourned when the case was called this morning by Recorder Lang in recorder's court. Basch was arrested a few days ago on a charge preferred by the Society of Cruelty to Animals who allege that he abandoned a horse at Kingston Point. Amos Van Etten appeared for the society this morning. The trial was adjourned to Tuesday morning.

Chester Reappears.

After an absence from recorder's court of some time Chester Christiana appeared again this morning when he was arraigned before Recorder Lang charged with being drunk. He had been arrested by Under Sheriff Seth Jocelyn. Chester was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail.

BOX FACTORY OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Because its business is directly proportional to the amount of business done by the local factories using paper boxes, Powell's box factory is preparing for one of the busiest years in its history. Only paper boxes are manufactured here, but all the demands of Kingston's shirt factories and other industries which use paper boxes are supplied entirely at Powell's. Because of the breakage sustained in shipping the boxes out of town and the resultant addition of cost to their price, together with the cost of transportation, none of the products of the factory are shipped to other cities.

The raw material which is received at the local factory from points in the northern part of the state is transformed by the work of several machines into the finished product. First the raw paper boards are cut into the sizes desired and then a cutting machine again cuts the pieces into sections, thereby making the sides of the boxes. From this process the pieces are taken to a machine which fastens edges on the corners of the boxes, giving them their form. Then the covering of better quality paper is put on the raw paper and produces the final appearance.

The war's effect on dyes is hitting the paper business pretty hard. On account of the lack of dyes the time does not seem far distant when all boxes will be white. Even the raw material is becoming yellow on account of the absence of dyes, which is used in its manufacture. Substitutes for this chemical are being used with the result that the color of the paper is changing.

Charles E. Powell, the owner of the factory, started in business about 18 years ago in the Staples factory on Hasbrouck avenue. After being in that location for 8 years he removed to the present location on Pine Grove avenue where he has since remained. Orders from the five shirt factories in town form an important part of the work, especially Fuller's, whose products are greatly in demand, partly due to their efficient laundry work which is admired by experts of the business.

BASCH FAMILY IN MORE TROUBLE

Now Louis Basch is Arrested for an Alleged Assault Growing Out of "Over the River" Business Competition.

The Basch family of the lower section of the city, which has figured in the public eye the past week, again had the limelight turned on when another member of the family, Louis Basch, was arrested this morning by Sergeant Hanley on a warrant sworn out before the police justice at Rhinebeck by Jacob Cohen of Hasbrouck avenue, who accuses Louis of assaulting him on Saturday at Rhinecliff.

From what could be learned it seems that Jacob and Louis operate rival stage lines across the river over the ice. The argument came up over a passenger whom each claimed had engaged his sleigh to convey him across the river. The argument grew so hot that it wound up in Jacob determining to have Louis arrested, claiming that Louis beat him up.

As the alleged assault occurred in Dutchess county Jacob was unable to secure a warrant in this city and applied to the bar of justice at Rhinebeck with the result that a deputy sheriff from that county called at police headquarters this morning and accompanied Sergeant Hanley to Kingston Point, where the sergeant arrested Louis and turned him over to the deputy sheriff who accompanied Louis across to Rhinebeck.

The trial of Morris Basch, a brother of Louis, on a charge of cruelty to a horse preferred against him by the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is slated before Recorder Lang on Tuesday morning. In city court is pending an action brought by Louis Basch against his father, Abram Basch, to recover the sum of $37.50 on a "boss" deal.

ZEPPELINS SEEKING BRITISH FLEET

Maneuvers During the Raid on Sunday Indicate an Effort to Locate Britain's Big Ships, of the Home Fleet.

JUST TO KEEP CROWD AWAY.

That is Why Frankie Moran Changes Quarter Admission.

New York, March 6.—Frank Moran has followed the lead of Jess Willard in charging 25 cents to see the training stunts. It was not the need of the coin that decided Moran. Oh, no. It was to keep the big crowd away so as not to interfere with the Pittsburgher's training. Both the champion and near-champion were out on the road early today. Jess went through his usual trot around Central Park. Frank hiked a few miles over the country roads in the Bronx. With the addition of more boxing partners, Willard gave this part of the training wide latitude today. Moran also added boxing to his training program. The blonde fighter is now down to weight.

Schermerhorn Case Adjourned.

The adjourned case of Frank Schermerhorn, 13 years old, charged with shooting Abbie Bacharach with a Florentine rifle, was called this morning in recorder's court before Recorder Lang, and another adjournment was taken for a week to await the outcome of Abbie's injuries. The bond furnished by the boy's father was continued. Andrew J. Cook, of Van Etten & Cook, was in court to look after the boy's interest. It was stated this morning that the case would be called on for trial at the Ben. Medicine Sanitarium, is slowly improving and that he would probably be removed to his home within the next ten days. The bullet is still in his body and as long as it does not retard his recovery it will not be removed. The grand jury met this afternoon, but it is not thought that they will consider the case unless Abbie has sufficiently recovered to appear before that body and give his evidence.

Where Pictures Were Taken.

WHAT MEN BELIEVE IN REGARD TO HELL

Majority of Those Replying to Dr. Ellis's Questions Express Positive Belief in Future Punishment. Minority Disbelieve or Doubt.

Sunday evening the pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church analyzed the answers of the men of Kingston to his question, "Do Men Generally Believe in Future Punishment?" Eighteen answered positively yes. Eleven of them giving reasons or explanations religious and moral. Six answered no. Six more answered no, two expressing the conviction that men believed in what they wanted to believe irrespective of what was fact or to their true interest. Five expressed the opinion that men are indifferent, as a rule, to the subject. Two while answering other questions failed to answer this one.

In his remarks on the subject the pastor observed that he held no brief for hell. That it was no pleasure to consider the possibilities or certainties of future punishment, but that the belief in future punishment was one of the oldest and most widespread of human convictions. He instanced the beliefs of the Americans, Indians, the Ancient Persians, who believed that the wicked would be condemned to toil underground.

The belief of Egyptians indicated in the "Book of the Dead," the Hindu teachings from earliest times of reward or punishment through transmigration of the soul, of the Greek and Roman beliefs and the teachings of Mohammedans, who hold that God has by predestination determined half of humanity for hell saying, "And I Care Not," and half for heaven, "And I Care Not."

Three objections to future punishment stood out in the answers received. The term future punishment as defined by one being, "The sense of a revengeful being preparing a place to send his recalcitrant offspring." Another, men "cannot understand being subjected to the laws of heredity and environment, why they should be punished for moral delinquencies. The third, that "men think they receive their punishment in this world."

The pastor in further consideration of the subject, indicated that the idea of future punishment is closely if not inseparably connected with three convictions. First.—The conviction of a future life. If one's ideas are material, the present world circumscribes his thought and life, the question of future punishment is of no moment, but if there is conviction of hope or a future life, the question arises at once, where, and how, and under what conditions? In heaven? If there is to be a heaven the human mind at once conceives of its opposite.

Second.—In connection with the idea of God. God has without doubt been most shamefully misrepresented by Dante and Dore. In their descriptions and pictures of Hell, Jonathan Edwards as well as in "Sinners in the Hands of an Angry God," failed to help to an understanding of God, not only, but led to a revolt of many minds against things spiritual. Nevertheless, the conviction of the holiness and mercy and goodness of God inevitably lead men to consider what should be done to those who are unfaithful to divine goodness.

Third.—There is the conviction that punishment must have its adequate place in a moral government. Punishment may be vindictive. It may be exemplary to vindicate and establish government, it may be remedial. Any worthy idea of punishment must be connected with the attainment of justice and ultimate good. Vindictive punishment is no longer approved in civilized communities. In our prisons and prison systems we are learning that it is not sufficient to mete out so much punishment for so much crime, quid pro quo, but the effort is made to reform criminals and to fit them for a return to honorable and useful life. We must not sink the idea of divine government below the best human moral standards.

The supreme question is do we dwell in a moral order, are we moral beings? If, as has been indicated, men are "subject to the laws of heredity and environment," they should not be punished as responsible moral beings in this world or the next. If heredity and environment control actions we should never blame the man who fails to pay his bills, or the man who robs us.

But men do not act on this principle. Now we believe in the fact that we live in a moral order, are responsible moral beings, but we do not find that men receive punishment or vindication of moral goodness in the present world. The drunkard and the licentious do in a measure reap the fruits of evil living, but not always. The dishonest grow wealthy and enjoy life. The innocent children and the wives suffer untold evil, and the godly are punished for the profligates' sins. Therefore, if there is to be a rectification, it must be in a future state.

We believe in a holy, just, loving and wise God, the ruler of the universe. We cannot believe Him vindictive or cruel, but that all punishment will be for good, for the good of the punished and for the good of all moral beings. How much punishment, how long? We must be content to let God know some things which we do not. Shall not the judge of all the earth do right?

Optimistic Thought. It is not the greatness of a man's means that makes him independent so much as the smallness of his wants.

DR. J. GRANT LYMAN AND WIFE. HELD ON SWINDLING CHARGE.

New York, March 6.—Dr. John Grant Lyman, held in the Tombs under $100,000 bail by Federal Judge Dayton and charged with using the mails to defraud in a stock brokerage business which he conducted under the name of J. H. Putnam and Co., asserts that he is not bankrupt. Since his capture at St. Petersburg, Fla., and his return to this city, bankruptcy proceedings have been instituted against him.

"These bankruptcy proceedings are all hush," Dr. Lyman said. "How can a man be examined in bankruptcy and a receiver appointed for his business when that business is thoroughly solvent? If they can prove that I am a bankrupt I'll give the receiver all possible help. The burden of the proof rests with them."

Dr. Lyman was asked if he wanted to finish out his unexpired term under the conviction in California before making his flight here. He said he wanted to get that California term out of the way as soon as possible. "Bankruptcy proceedings are very long-drawn-out affairs," he said. "They may take years. I would prefer to go right on to Atlanta Prison now, and then let them bring me on here to examine me in bankruptcy, just as they did Morse. I will be where they can put their hands on me in that event."

Just before returning to the Tombs Lyman's wife brought him two suit cases filled with fresh clothes. The postal authorities who captured him assert that they found a full sea of highly tempered little saws among his effects. These saws were so highly tempered that the post office inspector said he was able to saw through an iron cuspidor in a minute and a half.

UNCLE SAM FINDS HARGEN IS ALIVE

Lighthouse Inspector Still on This Side of Styx up to Saturday, is Washington Report—Officials to Probe Origin of "Death" Story.

That Stanley Hargen is correct in his statement to the Freeman that he is not dead was borne out today in a dispatch from Washington where the lighthouse service, department of commerce, stated to The Freeman correspondent that Hargen was alive up to Saturday. This official statement disposes effectually of reports of Hargen's death written to the widow, who resides in this city, from Florida where Hargen is stationed at Key West as a lighthouse inspector.

The dispatch from Washington follows. "Department of commerce has received no notice of Inspector's Hargen's death, reports him on duty at Key West. Department will start an investigation into death reports." So the mystery of the death message to the widow will probably be cleared up in due course of time. In the meantime, Hargen's word to his friends that the tropical life is most enjoyable at this time must be accepted as bearing out that he not only is not dead but is enjoying the best of health and spirits at the last writing.

BAKER TO BECOME SECRETARY OF WAR

Washington, March 6.—Newton D. Baker, former mayor of Cleveland, will succeed Lindley M. Garrison as secretary of war.

When Secretary to the President Tammany was asked today whether stories from Cleveland that the appointment had been tendered to former Mayor Baker, he at first refused to answer. When told later that Mr. Baker himself admitted that he had accepted the appointment, Mr. Tammany said: "If Mayor Baker has accepted his nomination is certain. The president has tendered the appointment to him. It is likely that the nomination will be sent to the senate within a day or two."

Asleep in a Snow Bank.

James Sullivan, a stranger, wandered into town on Saturday looking for work. Instead of finding work he accumulated a jag of such proportions that he retired for the night in a snow bank. He was found early Sunday morning by a pedestrian who notified police headquarters and Policeman Daun was sent to the scene and rescued Sullivan who was unable to give his name or where he hailed from. If he had not been found he would have frozen to death. This morning Recorder Lang gave Sullivan one hour to get out of town. He got.

ADMIRAL'S TALK TO SUNDAY SCHOOL

At the Sunday school services Sunday at the First Dutch Reformed Church the Christian flag was presented to the Sunday school and Admiral Higginson gave a very instructive and entertaining talk to the scholars.

The flag is a beautiful emblem, known to everyone who has spent years on a battleship as has Admiral Higginson, and no one could have been chosen to make the presentation address who better knew the meaning of the flag. The flag is composed of a white body with a red cross upon a blue field. The flag has been adopted by the Christian Church and is used upon a ship while services are being held. The Christian flag and no other is allowed to be hoisted above the stars and stripes.

Admiral Higginson told of many incidents in his career and spoke principally of incidents which occurred at the outbreak of the Civil War just after his graduation from Annapolis and while he was stationed a midshipman aboard a battleship at the mouth of the Mississippi. When Admiral Farragut was ordered to capture New Orleans and his fleet sailed up the river the men on board the ships could look over the levees and see the slaves at work on the plantations. But one dared look at the ships as they sailed by, and he was a small boy who for a time raced along with the ships. Suddenly he stopped and raising his shirt the sailors saw the American flag wrapped about the boy's body. Had this been discovered by persons on shore the boy would undoubtedly have been shot. The lad was given three rounds for his loyalty to the Stars and Stripes.

Many other incidents were told and all proved to be very entertaining and instructive. And at the close a rising vote of thanks was given Admiral Higginson for his instructive talk to the school.

Missionary Meeting Postponed.

On account of the men's dinner to be given by the ladies of the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Tuesday, the regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society has been postponed until Wednesday, when the ladies will meet with Mrs. Ellis at the manse and continue the study of "In Red Man's Land." Papers by Mrs. Louise Patchen and Miss Mary Basten. The annual election of officers will also take place.

COUNTY LABORATORY HAS NEW SERUM

Kingston One of Few Places in Which Diagnosis Can Be Made and New Serum Obtained for Pneumonia Treatment.

As announced in The Freeman a few weeks ago very encouraging work has been done recently in the treatment and cure of pneumonia. Dr. Rufus Cole and his associates at Rockefeller Hospital, New York city, have been making a special study of this dread disease and have made some important discoveries in regard to it. They found that pneumonia should be differentiated into four main classes or types. These types differ materially in frequency of occurrence and severity of the disease. By certain tests of the sputum from a patient with pneumonia, a properly equipped bacteriologist can determine the type of pneumonia the patient is afflicted with. Further than this they have made a serum for treating cases of Type I. Statistics of treatment with this serum of cases of pneumonia caused by Type I have shown striking reductions in mortality and marked lessening in severity and length of the disease.

In the entire state of New York in 1914 there were reported 8,790 deaths due to pneumonia of all types. Probably one-third, or about 2,990 of these deaths were caused by organisms of Type I.

An analysis of the mortality figures for the city of New York shows that the greatest number of deaths occurred during middle age, approximately twice as many as die from this cause as women. These figures are significant and the importance of these recent discoveries cannot be estimated.

With the exception of Rockefeller Hospital, where the work originated, the state laboratory in Albany and laboratories in Buffalo, Syracuse and Rochester were the only places in the state where the diagnosis of sputum could be made and the serum obtained. The Ulster County Laboratory has been added to the list and is prepared for this work and supplied with serum. The serum should be given as early in the course of the disease as possible so the advantage of local facilities is evident.

Dr. Raymond Sanderson, county bacteriologist, has recently spent considerable time at Rockefeller Hospital and the state laboratory studying methods and cases and is very enthusiastic over the results. J. G. Nathurst of Mingo Hollow, as noted in The Freeman a few days ago, has returned from Rockefeller Hospital, where he was cured of Type I pneumonia, and is warmly praising the treatment.

Charged That Basch Was Cruel.

The trial of Morris Basch on a charge of cruelty to a horse was again adjourned when the case was called this morning by Recorder Lang in recorder's court. Basch was arrested a few days ago on a charge preferred by the Society of Cruelty to Animals who allege that he abandoned a horse at Kingston Point. Amos Van Etten appeared for the society this morning. The trial was adjourned to Tuesday morning.

Chester Recaptured.

After an absence from recorder's court of some time Chester Christiana appeared again this morning when he was arraigned before Recorder Lang charged with being drunk. He had been arrested by Sheriff Seth Jocelyn. Chester was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail.

BOX FACTORY OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Because its business is directly proportional to the amount of business done by the local factories using paper boxes, Powell's box factory is preparing for one of the busiest years in its history. Only paper boxes are manufactured here, but all the demands of Kingston's shirt factories and other industries which use paper boxes are supplied entirely at Powell's. Because of the breakage sustained in shipping the boxes out of town and the resultant addition of cost to their price, together with the cost of transportation, none of the products of the factory are shipped to other cities.

The raw material which is received at the local factory from points in the northern part of the state is transformed by the work of several machines into the finished product. First the raw paper boards are cut into the sizes desired and then a cutting machine again cuts the pieces into sections, thereby making the sides of the boxes. From this process the pieces are taken to a machine which fastens edges on the corners of the boxes, giving them their form. Then the covering of better quality paper is put on the raw paper and produces the final appearance.

The war's effect on dyes is hitting our paper business pretty hard. On account of the lack of dyes the time does not seem far distant when all boxes will be white. Even the raw material is becoming yellow on account of the absence of casein, which is used in its manufacture. Substitutes for this chemical are being used with the result that the color of the paper is changing.

Charles E. Powell, the owner of the factory, started in business about 18 years ago in the Staples factory on Hasbrouck avenue. After being in that location for 8 years he moved to the present location on Pine Grove avenue where he has since remained. Orders from the five shirt factories in town form an important part of the work, especially Fuller's, whose products are greatly in demand, partly due to their efficient laundry work which is admired by experts of the business.

BASCH FAMILY IN MORE TROUBLE

Now Louis Basch is Arrested for "An Alleged Assault Growing Out of 'Over the River' Business Competition."

The Basch family of the lower section of the city, which has figured in the public eye the past week, again had the limelight turned on when another member of the family, Louis Basch, was arrested this morning by Sergeant Hanley on a warrant sworn out before the police justice at Rhinebeck by Jacob Cohen of Hasbrouck avenue, who accuses Louis of assaulting him on Saturday at Rhinecliff.

From what could be learned it seems that Jacob and Louis operate rival stage lines across the river over the ice. The argument came up over a passenger whom each claimed had engaged his sleigh to convey him across the river. The argument grew so hot that it wound up in Jacob determining to have Louis arrested, claiming that Louis beat him up.

As the alleged assault occurred in Dutchess county Jacob was unable to secure a warrant in this city and applied to the bar of justice at Rhinebeck with the result that a deputy sheriff from that county called at police headquarters this morning and accompanied Sergeant Hanley to Kingston Point, where the sergeant arrested Louis and turned him over to the deputy sheriff who accompanied Louis across to Rhinecliff.

The trial of Morris Basch, a brother of Louis, on a charge of cruelty to a horse preferred against him by the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is slated before Recorder Lang on Tuesday morning.

In city court is pending an action brought by Louis Basch against his father, Abram Basch, to recover the sum of $27.50 on a "boss' debt."

The Crovetto family lived in Little Neck formerly and were neighbors of Miss Everson. They had a quarrel with the Sunday school teacher. Miss Everson swore to a warrant that was issued against Mrs. Crovetto, and while the case was being heard Miss Woltje asserted that she wrote the letters at the dictation of the Sunday school teacher and signed Mrs. Crovetto's name to them.

Farm Meeting at Clintondale.

On Monday evening, February 28, Manager Hook of the Farm Bureau made a trip to Clintondale where he addressed the people of that place, over 125 being in attendance. An excellent home talent skit "The Village Grocer" was presented, the village grocer being J. W. Weaver; Mrs. W. D. Tallman, Wells Weaver and wife, Mr. Tallman and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Alsford and others taking part. After the entertainment Manager Hook spoke on Farm Management, using figures from the farm survey taken in that community. Mr. Hook demonstrated by charts that the cost of labor in relation to profit of farming is influenced by four factors: The size of the business, crop yields, quality of productiveness of stock, and diversity or arrangement of different sources of income on the farm so as to maintain as far as possible an even distribution throughout the year of man and horse labor.

Why Tolerate Catarrh?

You have noticed, no doubt, that any cold aggravates nasal catarrh, and the flow of mucous amazes you that such objectionable matter could find lodgment in your head. To ignore this catarrh when the cold subsides is wrong because it continues to slowly injure the delicate linings of the nasal passages and clog them up.

To correct catarrh, cleanse the nostrils frequently with a solution of warm water and salt, insert vaseline on retiring, and take a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion after meals for one month. Scott's acts through the blood to feed the tissues, and contains soothing glycerine to check the inflammation and heal the sensitive membranes.

Scott's is pleasant to take.

CHOICE DISHES FOR TABLE.

A most appetizing and delicious beginning for a dinner when entertaining is:

Grapefruit Cocktails.—Shred the pulp of three large grapefruit into small pieces, carefully rejecting all of the white membrane. Place the pulp in a china bowl, add a half cupful of powdered sugar, four or five drops of elder vinegar, a little grated nutmeg, and the pulp of three oranges; allow the ingredients to stand in the ice chest several hours so that a rich sirup is formed and when ready to serve place in tall glasses, placing a cherry or two on top of each glass.

Waldorf Salad.—Chop fine, four tart apples, squeeze over them a little lemon juice and add two cupfuls of tender, finely cut celery and a cupful of pecan meats; toss all together lightly and add a cupful of mayonnaise dressing. Garnish with chopped green peppers or thinly sliced radishes.

Hamburg Sponge.—Place in the upper part of a double boiler one pint of milk, add two well-beaten eggs and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Cook until well thickened, remove from the heat and add a half package of gelatin which has been softened in water to cover. Flavor with orange juice and the grated rind of an orange. When the gelatin mixture begins to stiffen, beat to a foam with an egg beater, fold in a tablespoonful of powdered sugar and a cupful of cream beaten stiff. Turn into large sherbet cups which have been lined with macaroons and place on ice to chill. Serve garnished with candied cherries.

Kidney in Scallop Shells.—Soak kidneys in a little acidulated water for an hour, then cook in a little soup stock, to which is added a minced onion, a bay leaf, a stalk of celery and a carrot, both chopped. When tender, drain and chop as fine as possible, add salt, paprika and two tablespoonfuls of grated bread crumbs and a cupful of tomato catchup; then turn into the shells and sprinkle with well-buttered crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. Garnish with parsley.

Painless Extractions

During the year 1915 the Cady Dental Offices in Poughkeepsie, Kingston, Newburgh and Middletown performed over ten thousand extractions. These operations were painless. Local Anaesthetics were used in the majority of cases but nitrous-oxide gas in a few. This wonderful record should make a deep impression on those who have teeth which require extraction and desire to have the operation done painlessly.

CHURCH RECEIVES 21 NEW MEMBERS

Sunday was a day long to be remembered by those who were privileged to attend the services at the Reformed Church of the Comforter. The church was filled both morning and evening with a worshipful and enthusiastic people. At the morning service seven received the ordinance of baptism, twenty-one were received into the membership of the church, seven by letter and fourteen on confession of faith. All of these were adults except one. So great were the number of communicants that there were not sufficient individual cups to meet the demand at the sacramental service. It was by far the largest communion in the history of the church. During the past fifteen months seventy-five have been received into the fellowship of the church, thirty-one by letter, forty-four on confession of faith. Of these, fifty have been heads of families and only four under sixteen years of age. Three of the number who have joined recently on confession have been over sixty-five years of age. It is expected that there will be fully as large a class to join on Easter Sunday.

On account of the increasing congregations the consistory have just purchased twenty-five additional copies of "The Church Hymnary." The Wiltwyck Social Club have also purchased one hundred and fifty copies of the Tullar-Meridith song book, "The Sacrifice of Praise," which is being used at the evening service to the great pleasure of the large congregation. At the monthly praise service in the evening the pastor preached on "Moses, the uncrowned king." The musical numbers consisted of a solo, "Rock of Ages" most beautifully sung in a clear voice of Miss Ethel Knapp; a men's chorus "Sweet and Low" which everyone enjoyed, and an anthem by the chorus "The Lost Chord" which was rendered most charmingly. Anyone who is looking for a church home in this part of the city is most cordially invited to worship with us. The church is located on Wynkoop Place, one block from Foxhall avenue, and three blocks from Hasbrouck avenue.

There are many religions, but there is only one morality.—Ruskin.

PLEA FOR IDEALS IN HUMAN LIVES

Existence Divided Into Four Planes
by Irving E. Vining in Eloquent Address Before Sunday Afternoon Audience in Y. M. C. A. Auditorium.

A plea for ideals and the important part these play in human lives that are worth living was the chief note sounded by Irving Vining of New York and Ashland, Oregon, in an eloquent address before a fair-sized audience Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. Mr. Vining is pre-eminently a psychologist and his application of psychology to human problems, material and spiritual, has made him famous as lecturer before business men and rotary clubs as well as in Y. M. C. A. work in which he takes active interest.

On his subject, "Is Life Worth Living?" the speaker returned a vigorous affirmative and expressed the belief of that fact being true of Kingston. However, he asked his hearers to present their cases to the boys of the city and learn where they and their lives stand in the juvenile estimation. In itself an acid test of the success of a life work, he held.

Mr. Vining placed life on four planes, the first and lowest being the animal plane which has for its sole object the finding of food, rain, a soft place and pleasure in life and the avoidance of fear, pain and hunger. Many of us, he said, spend our lives upon this plane which he said was legitimate only in so far as it was regulated to keep up bodily strength and vigor. The second plane in which we seek to obtain the rewards of life and avoid punishment was portrayed as next in the scale and in this category the speaker placed some young people who remain in their homes solely because there is a place to eat and sleep with the least effort. On this same plane where the speaker placed the dog, cringing on the hearth, thousands of wage earners live and it is a plane characteristic of American life today, a plane in which graft in public office thrives, the only crime being in discovery and punishment.

These planes were pictured with a wealth of pertinent illustrations in easy fashion by the speaker who then proceeded to the next plane where effort is put forth for praise and friendly words of commendation and for the avoidance of blame or criticism. Life, he held, was not worth living unless one had realized this plane and the last and highest of the planes was that in the inmost soul of every human being, seldom realized and never forgotten, the vision of things as they ought to be.

In dwelling upon the obstacles in the pathway of the pursuit of ideals the speaker referred in passing to the international situation, praising President Wilson's attitude proclaiming that America stands for the ideals of humanity. The material and practical side of the argument has been raised by forces at home and abroad so that we have almost been compelled to depart from this ideal, declared the speaker, who believed that no sacrifice was too great in holding to it.

"Unless you have ideals and are struggling toward their realization," he said, "your life counts for almost nothing, you are simply an echo. The greatest sorrow of life today is that there might be things which never are."

In conclusion he dwelt upon the ideals of Christ and their application to modern life, urging his hearers to keep their ideals in ideals which, realized or unrealized, are after all the best in life and the things which make life worth the living.

During the meeting two duets were sung most acceptably by General Secretary and Mrs. George D. Beckwith. Assistant Secretary Sun, etaro presided and introduced the speaker. Among interesting facts about Mr. Vining is his activity in community work in southern Oregon, where he spends half each year. Three months of this time is giving over to hunting trips with parties numbering more than 250 boys. The Elks also take great interest in the work in Ashland, where social welfare has been substituted for industrial expansion as the best subject for community effort.

COMFORTER LADIES' AID.

Annual Meeting Held and Important Business Transacted.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Church of the Comforter held its annual meeting March 11 in the lecture room of the church with a most representative gathering of women present. The meeting opened in charge of the religious committee. Following routine matters the reports for the year were read. The secretary's report showed a growth of the society of more than one-half. The treasurer's report was so encouraging it was deservedly applauded. The flower and calling committee presented a report which, to quote another member, "was the best flower committee report ever received." At this meeting two more very welcome members were added to the society.

The society takes this opportunity of thanking its many friends who helped in so many and various ways the past year, particularly The Kingston Freeman, for the frequent use of its columns for the society's notices. The meeting was then adjourned. It was immediately called to order for the annual election. Mrs. George Shufeldt, with her usual gentle dignity, presided, and Mrs. W. F. Stowe presenting the name of the candidates. The officers of the past year were all re-elected, the only change being made in the social work, which will return to the circle arrangements found effective formerly. The chairman, their terms and assistants are as follows:

First four months, chairman, Mrs. Abram DeForrest, with Miss Askam, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Kelder, Mrs. Barnard, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Freer, Mrs. Apt, Mrs. Lasher, Mrs. Beadle and Mrs. Chauncey Freer, for assistants. For the second four months, Mrs. W. F. Stowe, chairman, with Mrs. Shufeldt, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Elmen-dorf, Mrs. Peters, Mrs. Sagar, Mrs. Raschke, Mrs. Van Demark, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Kelse, Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Cook for assistants.

For the last of the year, Mrs. Dawes Brink, chairman, with Mrs. H. Van Gaasbeek, Mrs. Parslow, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Conklin, Mrs. Eighmey, Mrs. Whitmore, Mrs. Barber, Mrs. Moon, Mrs. Bowers, Mrs. Baltz and Mrs. John Kelder, assistants.

This closed the year's election. The social time which followed will be long remembered. It was known that some form of refreshments would be served, but the serving committee proved that women can keep secrets for not any amount of questioning could get a knowledge of what they were to be. It was to be a surprise. It surely was, and a most delightful one.

The serving committee, all in spotless white, sheer, dainty serving aprons, long tables sparkling and dainty, all in white with decorations of leafy green, were all very attractive. The menu showed the thoughtful consideration of the serving committee from the oysters, which were served in their most acceptable form, to the dessert of cream and home made cakes. The supper was a success in every way. Much praise was given the salad, prepared by Mrs. Whitmore, in its artistic pond lily arrangement; so attractive was its appearance some suggested not to spoil the arrangement, but after one had tasted of it one was glad to have spoiled it, for it tasted as good as it looked.

After the supper Dr. Stowe further added to the evening's enjoyment by some witty remarks, which were fol-

HOOSIER Kitchen Cabinets

Hoosier's unrivaled convenience won the Gold Medal at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, San Francisco, and this sale is to celebrate its leadership and let the public see the many ways that Hoosier excels.

People all over America will attend this great event at the Hoosier stores and we have had to prepare weeks ahead to get a special allotment of Hoosiers from the factory for our own home folks. The sale starts tomorrow and will last all week if our supply of cabinets lasts. Those who come first are sure of being supplied at once. If you don't want to wait for your cabinet, then please don't put off your visit to our store.

Remember there are Hoosiers for farms, camps, apartments, big and little kitchens, for window spaces and the center of big kitchens. No further need for old-fashioned, built-in, uncleanable cupboards.

See the Demonstration of Hoosier's 40 Labor-saving Features

Every woman who wants to be up-to-date in household affairs will want to see this demonstration. You will want to see what expert men and women have achieved in cutting your kitchen work in two. How a Hoosier lets you sit down with 400 articles all handily arranged at your fingers' ends. How it ends incessant walking back and forth to gather supplies and put them away each meal.

We want you to see the many patented features that have won a million women.

Domestic Science Experts

have designed and located every Hoosier convenience exactly at your fingers' ends. Skilled mechanics and inventors have perfected the many working features.

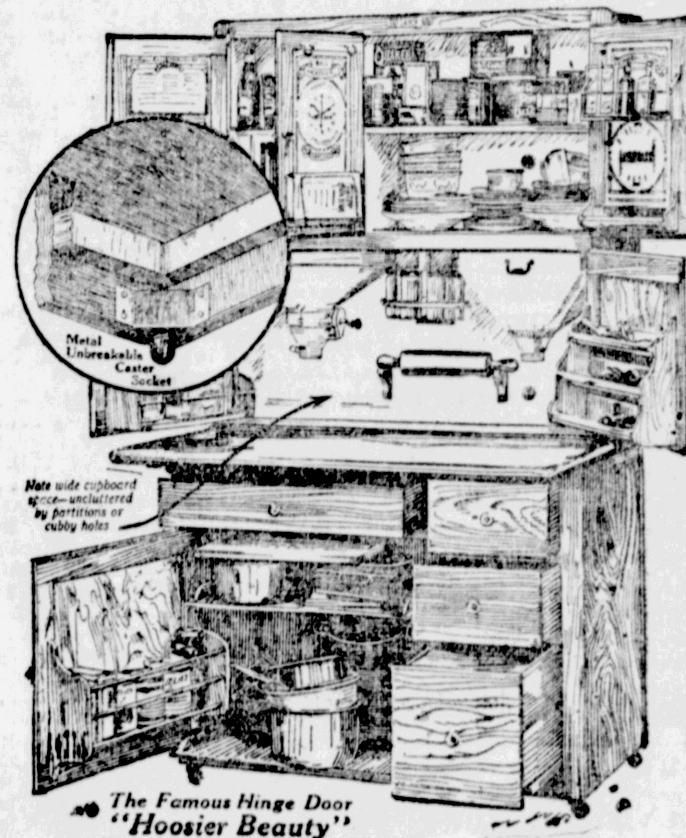

Nothing Has Been Overlooked

that could improve its convenience or add to your comfort. That's why a million women use and praise the Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet for the hours of time and miles of steps it saves them. You can easily roll the Hoosier about on its ball bearing casters, and the metal sockets can't break. These, and other Hoosier Gold Medal features, will be demonstrated to all the folks who call tomorrow. Those who are not ready to buy won't be expected to. We will scarcely have enough cabinets to last the week out anyway.

But we want you to come and learn the inside facts about kitchen cabinets. If you missed this demonstration at the San Francisco Fair, this is your chance to see what interested thousands of people.

Come tomorrow and bring your friends.

Feds Hold Annual Election.

On Sunday at their club rooms the Wilbur Feds Baseball Club held their first annual meeting and election of officers, which were as follows: President, F. Kenny; vice president, E. Dougherty; secretary, H. Carter; treasurer, J. McNelis. The manager and captain of this year's team will be George Cragin and Ira Bush. After the regular business a social time was had. Henry Carter rendered a few popular selections on the piano and Fred Stoudt contributed to the afternoon's entertainment by singing several of the latest airs in his masterly way. The meeting adjourned sine die.

"My New Curate" Tonight.

Tonight the St. Mary's Dramatic Society will present "My New Curate" at the St. Mary's Hall at 8 o'clock for the benefit of the Home of the Holy Childhood. This makes the fourth presentation of this play which has been seen by over two thousand people of this city. The same capable cast that presented it recently will appear tonight and that is all that need be said of the quality of the performance. Undoubtedly the play will be greeted by another packed house when the curtain rises this evening.

should be demanded in a table beverage.

Coffee—for example—may possess a pleasant flavour for some, but it contains a most harmful element—caffeine, a subtle, cumulative drug, the continued use of which frequently leads to various diseases of the kidneys, liver and other vital organs, and sometimes to premature old age. Among the symptoms of caffeine poisoning are headache, nervousness, biliousness, sleeplessness, heart-flutter, "brain-lag," and so on.

Any coffee drinker who is ailing had better quit the coffee—tea also—and use

NOW SUES FOR FALSE ARREST.

Napanoch Woman Seeks Damages in Poison Pen Case.

Miss Mary M. Everson, the Sunday school teacher of Little Neck, Long Island, who is accused of dictating improper letters to Alvina Woltje, and of accusing Mrs. Louis Crovetto of Ulster county, of writing them, has been served with papers in suits for damages instituted by Mrs. Crovetto and her husband.

The Crovetto family lived in Little Neck formerly and were neighbors of Miss Everson. They had a quarrel with the Sunday school teacher. Miss Everson swore to a warrant that was issued against Mrs. Crovetto, and while the case was being heard Miss Woltje asserted that she wrote the letters at the dictation of the Sunday school teacher and signed Mrs. Crovetto's name to them.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

Waist 1513. Skirt 1512.—A Trim and Up-to-Date Costume Comprising Ladies' Waist Pattern 1513. and Ladies' Skirt 1512.

Striped wool poplin, in gray with facings of matched taffeta is here shown. Serge, wool mixtures, plaid and checked suitings are also appropriate. The waist is made with convertible collar, the most popular style feature of the season. The sleeve may be finished with a deep new cuff, in wrist length, or comfortable and short with a turn back cuff. The skirt is a "yoke" model, lengthened by plaited gores. The waist pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The skirt is cut in 6 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure. It will require 10 yards of 36 inch material for the entire costume for a medium size.

This illustration calls for two separate patterns which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents for each pattern in silver or stamps, by The Freeman Pattern Department. Be sure to state size wanted.

Farm Meeting at Clintondale.

On Monday evening, February 28, Manager Hook of the Farm Bureau made a trip to Clintondale where he addressed the people of that place, over 125 being in attendance. An excellent home talent skit "The Village Grocer" was presented, the village grocer being J. W. Weaver; Mrs. W. D. Tallman, Wells Weaver and wife, Mr. Tallman and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Alsford and others taking part. After the entertainment Manager Hook spoke on Farm Management, using figures from the farm survey taken in that community. Mr. Hook demonstrated by charts that the cost of labor in relation to profit of farming is influenced by four factors: The size of the business, crop yields, quality of productiveness of stock, and diversity or arrangement of different sources of income on the farm so as to maintain as far as possible an even distribution throughout the year of man and horse labor.

Why Tolerate Catarrh?

You have noticed, no doubt, that any cold aggravates nasal catarrh, and the flow of mucous amazes you that such objectionable matter could find lodgment in your head. To ignore this catarrh when the cold subsides is wrong because it continues to slowly injure the delicate linings of the nasal passages and clog them up.

To correct catarrh, cleanse the nostrils frequently with a solution of warm water and salt, insert vaseline on retiring, and take a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion after meals for one month. Scott's acts through the blood to feed the tissues, and contains soothing glycerine to check the inflammation and heal the sensitive membranes. Scott's is pleasant to take.

CHOICE DISHES FOR TABLE.

A most appetizing and delicious beginning for a dinner when entertaining is:

Grapefruit Cocktails.—Shred the pulp of three large grapefruit into small pieces, carefully rejecting all of the white membrane. Place the pulp in a china bowl, add a half cupful of powdered sugar, four or five drops of cider vinegar, a little grated nutmeg, and the pulp of three oranges; allow the ingredients to stand in the ice chest several hours so that a rich sirup is formed and when ready to serve place in tall glasses, placing a cherry or two on top of each glass.

Waldorf Salad.—Chop fine, four tart apples, squeeze over them a little lemon juice and add two cupfuls of tender, finely cut celery and a cupful of pecan meats; toss all together lightly and add a cupful of mayonnaise dressing. Garnish with chopped green peppers or thinly sliced radishes.

Hamburg Sponge.—Place in the upper part of a double boiler one pint of milk, add two well-beaten eggs and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Cook until well thickened, remove from the heat and add a half package of gelatin which has been softened in water to cover. Flavor with orange juice and the grated rind of an orange. When the gelatin mixture begins to stiffen, beat to a foam with an egg-beater, fold in a tablespoonful of powdered sugar and a cupful of cream beaten stiff. Turn into large sherbet cups which have been lined with macaroons and place on ice to chill. Serve garnished with candied cherries.

Kidney in Scallop Shells.—Soak kidneys in a little acidulated water for an hour, then cook in a little soup stock, to which is added a minced onion, a bay leaf, a stalk of celery and a carrot, both chopped. When tender, drain and chop as fine as possible, add salt, paprika and two tablespoonfuls of grated bread crumbs and a cupful of tomato catsup; then turn into the shells and sprinkle with well-buttered crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. Garnish with parsley.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 6, 1916.

Manliness is obviously a pretty scarce quality among the Democrats who control Congress, and the situation has for several days become more and more disgusting. It was bad enough for the Senate to lay on the table a self-contradictory resolution, but the House has surpassed it by refusing even to do as little as that until the primaries in Indiana tomorrow are over. Evidently, these Hoosier statesmen care more for re-nomination than they do for the interests of their country. This sentiment is not so rare among their kind, but it is seldom so frankly avowed. It must be interesting to Indians to know that their chosen representatives are trying to get the votes of some of them under false pretences. Equally detestable is the spectacle of Bryan, who is actual dictator to a large portion of the Democratic party, going to Washington in this crisis and hobnobbing with the foes of the President in a conspiracy to thwart him in his policy. The picture of the house divided against itself that cannot stand presents itself forcibly to the mind. Most intolerable of all is the absurdity of the central proposition that the Government warn its citizens to keep off ships owned by citizens of belligerent nations. No American is going to risk his life in a quarrel not his own unless some sort of duty compels him. Europe is not attractive to mere pleasure seekers. Consequently, no warning is needed, and only a self-seeking coward can favor a renunciation of the principle that our Government should protect its citizens who are traveling on lawful business.

Working in the school children as revenue-producers for some cause or other does not, unfortunately, come within the scope of our child labor laws. If it did, raising money for battleships would go by the board and such projects be left to the proper authorities, the expense to be borne by taxation. It may be that the administration now in power would like nothing better than to have a battleship handed over by American boys and girls, an easy method of increasing the navy without increasing the deficit! It is a fact that North Carolina, the native State of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, has upwards of 6,000 child laborers between the ages of ten and thirteen years. Who knows but that condition this child labor battleship idea owes some of its acceleration, if not its inspiration? A metropolitan newspaper has proved an effective champion of this fund and the plan at the outset was commended in these columns as being useful to the extent of indicating the popular sentiment in favor of a greater navy. But it hardly seems to be necessary to our national defense to pass the hat in the public schools for dime contributions, which is what acceptance of such gifts by teachers implies.

If children are to contribute to this function of government, why confine the object to a battleship? Why not extend it to deepening the Hudson or other government projects which Congress has neglected along with a greater navy? There is no end to the subjects which might as properly be put up to juvenile sentimentality. As a matter of fact, children are doing altogether too much along these lines now, although uplifters seem hardly conscious of this truth. In our own State children in rural districts are making a farm census which, in the mere matter of accuracy at least, will bear comparison with the recent State census in which men were engaged at fair salaries. Then, too, there are the Christmas sales by the children, whose proceeds go to social welfare work, which is a most proper charge upon a community. If this latter is correct, it is as a community charge that this expense should be included in the taxes rather than raised by any hit-or-miss volunteer subscription plan in which children are exploited because of their powers of appeal to adult purse-strings. Childhood is getting to be altogether too brief in duration anyway. It should be left free to be itself without regard to building battleships or adding other problems of the world of grown-ups into which children are admitted quite soon enough as it is.

Social leaders can burn their bridges as well as the military strategists. And in the cases of the Palm Beach society women who recently figured in motion pictures these figurative bridges will be the only things burned, although the agreement in the making of the films was that they were to be consigned to the flames after a single exhibition. Whether or not the films deserved a flaming fate is not stated, but they are to be produced in New York as well as in Florida, as might have been expected from the first. Life at a Florida winter resort is just one photograph after another, to judge from the newspapers. There is nothing melancholic in the attire or anatomy of the subjects and even a fixed look is invariably pleasant, such is the degree of nicety that the art of motion photography has reached. With due consideration to the troubles of camera men and the war-boostered price for inflammable film material, the pity of consigning the pictures to the fire is apparent. Besides there are the war sufferers to be considered. So many artistic crimes have been perpetrated in their name that the sacrifice of modesty in this connection will be all the more to the credit of the fair performers. The willingness of the latter to become martyrs to the movies and to suffer for the sufferers will thus be all the better understood and even more widely appreciated at its full worth.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, March 6.—Miss Edna Harper, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Groves on Broadway, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

Port Ewen Lodge, No. 656; I. O. O. F., will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in their rooms in Pythian Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Holt N. Winfield and daughter, Alda, of Ulster Park are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Neher on Bayard street.

The Teachers Bible Training Class will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage. The Rev. Eugene A. Bookhout will be in charge.

Mrs. Grube of Poughkeepsie was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Perrine on Broadway.

The annual conference supper will be held in the chapel Tuesday, March 7. A roast beef and roast pork supper will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock for the sum of 25 cents. An entertainment will be held in the auditorium at 8 o'clock at which time the chairman of the three divisions will give in their reports for the work done through the year. A free will offering will be taken. Ice cream will be on sale during the afternoon and evening; two flavors, vanilla and chocolate. The members of the Ladies' Aid Society will be pleased to give you a hearty welcome. Every-body invited.

Any one having any articles to contribute to the box that is being packed by the Missionary Society of the Reformed Church will kindly have them at the home of Miss Etta Elsworth on Broadway, Tuesday, promptly at 2 o'clock. Those interested in this line of missionary work please bear the date, time and place in mind.

Webster Pewter is ill at his home on Salem street. Dr. G. W. Ross is the attending physician.

A meeting of the official board of the Methodist Church will be held at the parsonage Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

On Wednesday evening, March 8, the members of Hope Lodge, No. 65, K. of P., and their families are invited to be present at its Castle Hall at 8 o'clock when a social evening will be spent together. An entertainment, consisting of vocal and instrumental numbers will be rendered, after which games will be played and refreshments served. It is hoped that a large number will be present.

On Friday evening, March 17, the Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will tender a reception to the congregation of the church in the Sunday school room. Entertainment, refreshments, etc., and a general good time.

A regular meeting of the Ever Ready Club will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Regina Van Leuven on Broadway.

Recital at Woodstock.

The musical recital, given by Mrs. B. R. Cooper's class, at her residence in Woodstock, on March 3, was a decided success, each selection being rendered with much enthusiasm on part of the pupils. After the musical program a social hour proved most enjoyable, and was followed by a delicious supper, served in the dining room. Both the table and dining room were tastefully decorated to suit the occasion. In departing each pupil thanked the teacher for her interest shown in their work and for her delightful entertainment.

Missionary Society on Wednesday.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will be held at the residence of Mrs. Charles G. Ellis on Wurts street on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This will be the annual meeting and officers will be elected. Mrs. Louise Patchen will lead the meeting and a fine program has been arranged.

DAIRY GOSSIP.

Don't let the cows out in the storms to stand around. It does not pay.
The cows that produce the largest amounts of butter fat do it most economically.
The calves should by all means be kept in clean, well lighted and ventilated stables.
A gallon of cream testing 25 per cent should churn a little over two pounds of butter.
The object of cow testing and keeping records is to improve the herd and increase the output.

PRODUCTIVENESS IN AGED COWS IMPORTANT

It is of paramount importance to the dairyman that a dairy cow should not only be a large producer in her prime, but that she should possess the constitution to continue to be a profitable cow and a regular breeder to a ripe old age. A cow that is still lucrative when she is sixteen or eighteen years old is worth far more to her owner than a cow whose productive life ceases when she is about nine or ten years old. For in the latter instance the depreciation is so great that the profits are seriously curtailed.

The official records made by the cows of each breed ten years of age or over give perhaps the best idea of productiveness of the different breeds in old age. The Holstein cow, Valdesa Scott II, who made at the age of eight years two months one day, 33.50 pounds fat from 694.6 pounds milk in seven days, came back at the age of ten years two months sixteen days and made 29.90 pounds fat from 611.4 pounds milk in seven days, and 113.96 pounds fat from 2,475.7 pounds milk in thirty days. These butter records for seven and thirty days are unequaled by any ten-year-old cow in the world, says a correspondent of Kimball's Dairy Farmer.

Among the most striking records made by the oldest cows in the advanced registries of the different breed associations is that of the Holstein cow Hark, who made 13.61 pounds fat from 418.4 pounds milk in seven days, freshening at eighteen years ten months twenty-one days. Another Holstein cow, Lavera Hortensia Beauty, calving at the age of seventeen years eleven months fourteen days, made

With her large frame, strength and vigor, the Holstein cow comes naturally by a hardiness that lessens her susceptibility to disease, makes it possible for her to thrive under ordinary care and gives her a long and useful life. With these same factors go unusual digestive powers, making her the greatest of machines for the conversion of the coarse feeds of the farm into money value. The bull shown is a Holstein.

16.83 pounds fat from 581 pounds milk in seven days, beginning her record seventy-two days after freshening.

The oldest Guernsey cow in their advanced registry, Belle Brandon, made 428.43 pounds fat from 8,061.3 pounds milk in a year, calving at the age of fifteen years.

Pogis Irene II, a Jersey who holds all yearly records for her breed for cows over twelve years of age, made 15.75 pounds fat from 262.3 pounds milk in seven days and 590.4 pounds fat from 9,930 pounds milk in 365 days, calving at eighteen years of age.

The average profitable productive life of a cow is being greatly prolonged by the official test, and it will probably not be long until instances of great records made by cows eighteen and twenty years old will be as common as the large records made by cows eleven and twelve years of age that are being reported at the present time.

Skim a Fairly Thick Cream.

Farmers will make more money by skimming a reasonably thick cream than a thin cream. Skimming high test cream leaves more skim milk on the farm to feed to hogs, calves and chickens. Skim milk, utilized in this way has a feeding value of about 35 cents per hundred, while if the milk is left in the cream nothing is realized. The buttermaker usually wants a cream testing around 35 or 40 per cent butter fat. In the winter if the cream is above 40 per cent it is rather difficult to get the cream all out of one can into another or into a vat. Cream testing about 35 per cent in the winter and 40 per cent in the summer is right for butter making.

Oilmeal Better Than Cottonseed.

We consider oilmeal a little better food, on the whole, than cottonseed meal, says Hoard's Dairyman. Oilmeal is not as rich in protein as cottonseed meal, but it contains other properties which give it a preference. This is especially true if there are no slugs or roots to feed. Oilmeal has a good diuretic effect upon the animal's digestion. In other words, it tends to overcome the constipating effect of dry feed. It helps to keep the animal's digestion in good condition.

His Future.

"When I was your age I worked fourteen hours a day," said the worried father. "Well, what of it?" replied the young man who squanders. "Nothing much. Only when you get to be my age that is probably what you will have to do."

mind that the diplomatic correspondence at the time of the war of 1812 was not unlike that which we have just been having with Great Britain. Nor were we any better prepared in 1846, but were still depending upon "Militia," as distinguished from "federal troops." And we had not learned our lesson yet. In 1898, for we were not even sufficiently prepared to take our troops to Cuba.

Our members of Congress are all familiar with the conditions under which we entered upon those wars, and instead of going to sleep, should from the history back of us, see to it that this country is now prepared. More than once in the last year men and women have watched for the morning's news with bated breath. Said the speaker, "We are all read-s and know what submarines mean, but we have none of any consequence. Have we any war planes? None at all, yet today, the airplanes are the eyes of the army and navy, showing where to shoot. We have no battle cruisers and not sufficient scouts, nor any submarine basis on the Atlantic or Pacific coasts. Our fortifications are not what they should be. Congress has shown itself sluggish, and no much occupied with its own affairs—I speak without regard to politics—to consider the matter largely and wisely. But the public can reach its representatives who are responsible for the country's welfare, and they would not do what they knew would be contrary to those whom they represent."

The speaker then presented the salient arguments against a large preparedness, as offered by the greatest leader of anti-preparedness. First, that we must not prepare for defense lest we be tempted to go abroad to fight. "What for?" said Judge Parker. Since no nation had ever gone to war for fun, the object must be for land, for property, for wider fields. "There is no acre that we want, not one," said the speaker. He cited the case of the Philippines, which we would so much rather not have, and over the possession of which there is now but one question. "As trustees of the islands, how soon may the United States leave them to self-government, with a clear conscience?"

In the war with Spain, we took possession, temporarily of Cuba, the richest country per acre in the world. Did we keep it? No. We said, "God bless you. We will help you to have a republic of your own." "We mean to work out the problem of democracy here. We have wealth enough of our own, and the means of creating more wealth, not to be bothered about other lands, nor do we wish to be interfered with."

Another argument put forth by the anti-preparedness leader was that it would be entirely a waste of money, because if we as a country followed in the footsteps of righteousness and maintained a Christian spirit, all would be well. Judge Parker recalled that China had followed in the footsteps of righteousness and had maintained the spirit of righteousness, which was their equivalent to Christian, and had not been prepared with the result that, being weak in defense, Germany had entered her boundaries and helped herself to a piece of her territory. England had appropriated another piece; Japan another; Russia still another, etc., and the speaker doubted if Japan would now allow China to prepare.

That would I like you to do?" said the judge. "You have here a branch of the United States Security League, of which Judge Clearwater is local president. It is part of a great organization started to arouse public sentiment and to impress that sentiment upon congress, calling for a definite policy whereby congress should take the matter of defense and preparedness entirely out of politics." The machinery of defense should be in charge of the army and navy experts, unaffected by politics that might desire to enrich special localities, by securing resultant political jobs for somebody at home. The judge said he was referring to neither political party, for both were quite alike in such matters. It was time, he thought, to put the entire affair upon a higher plane, and to place the matter of preparedness in the hands of men of wisdom and experience, who acting as trustees of the great trust, would administer the same for posterity as well as our own time.

In New York there is a woman's branch of the National Security League, and one should be formed in Kingston under Judge Clearwater, as was the one in New York under Judge Choate.

Finally, the speaker pleaded for the support and intelligent aid of his audience for one more reason, peculiarly pertinent to Kingston. Here was formed the first state constitution, and there was about Kingston that atmosphere which enabled the people to appreciate more fully the development of the country as planned and hoped by the "Fathers" of the country. For thousands of years before this government was created there had been none like it. Other lands had made the attempt to institute and perpetuate the same principles of liberty, but had failed. Because of our wonderful constitution, formulated by the real founders of our country, and which was secured as not to be changed without a vote of the people, we have prospered marvelously; in wealth beyond measure; education, ally; and with our liberty unaffected. "And because this government has achieved such success, it has shown and still shines as the Star of the East, beckoning the peoples of the world to enjoy its liberty, freedom and prosperity. It is a duty that we as a nation owe ourselves to so prepare that no nation shall ever dare to attack us, and so that we may continue to shine as the Star of the East to the people of the entire world." Prolonged applause followed the address, and a rising vote of thanks was given Judge Parker.

In brief the business of the meeting and reports were as follows: The secretary, Mrs. Gray, read the minutes of the last meeting; the treasurer, Mrs. Frank Merritt, gave the following balances to the credit of each of the Federation funds: Federation balance, $95.90; Day Nursery fund, $84.15; Visiting Nurse fund, $11.

Among other correspondence reported by the Corresponding Secretary, Miss Van Slyke, was a communication from the moving picture and bill board censors, asking for the support of the Federation.

Appropos of the fact that the recent dinner given by the Federation had netted over $100, Mrs. Reed spoke of the exceptional effort put forth by the president, Mrs. Moulton, who had done so much personally to make the affair the success it was, and a vote of thanks was unanimously extended Mrs. Moulton for this service to the Federation.

Mrs. Basten of the Membership Committee, reported nine affiliated organizations and fifty-one individual members. Mrs. Gillespie of the Sunshine Society, told of the continued work of that decidedly philanthropic body and stated, that thanks to Father Brody, who contributed the use of St. Joseph's Hall, and other friends, the recent card party had netted the society $95 with which to continue its work.

Miss Sarah Horton, president of the Day Nursery committee, told of the greatly improved efficiency of the nursery, and the inestimable help which Miss Betz, the tuberculosis visiting nurse who is a resident at the Federation House, had given the work. Under the direct supervision and care of her niece the moral and sanitary conditions had also improved greatly, and the Monday afternoon Sewing Club, responsible for the Day Nursery, were greatly pleased with conditions as at present. The "Black and White Dance," just given had realized $275 for the Day Nursery fund.

Dr. Day, chairman of the Public Health Committee, devoted her time to giving a detailed account of the full program for "Baby Week," and urged a supporting attendance from the Federation at the playette, "Theft of Thistle-down," and dance, to be given tomorrow, Tuesday evening at St. Mary's Hall. There will be an afternoon performance for school children, the admission being ten cents. The proceeds from this matinee and the evening performance will go toward defraying the expenses of the "Baby Week," and for public health work.

Mrs. Fessenden of the Social Center Association, reported the usual activities enthusiastically resumed since the resumption of classes following the scarlet fever scare.

Miss Cloonan, secretary of the Soisakanishade Club, the newest member of the Federation, upon request, gave the objects of the club to be the study of American literature, and the doing of philanthropic work. Under the latter head the club members have assisted Mrs. Moulton at the Federation House on Saturday evenings, and had made contributions of fruit, flowers, etc., to the patients at the Tuberculosis Hospital.

The corresponding secretary then read a letter from the woman's branch of the National Security League, and it was voted that the Federation go on record as being in sympathy with the movement and as being ready to assist in any work which the league might direct.

Announcement was made that on March 15th, the spring meeting of the Third District Branch of the Federation would meet in Albany. The meeting then adjourned.

CERTIFIED CHICKENS.

Farm Bureau Plans to Aid Local Breeders of Poultry.

The Ulster County Farm Bureau has taken up a very promising and original feature in connection with the poultry branch of the bureau, the certifying of poultry breeding pens. In this branch a poultryman who has eggs or chicks for sale may, by undergoing an examination of his breeding pens and birds, secure a certificate from the bureau as to the healthfulness and vitality of his birds. This will be of great assistance to people who wish to buy eggs for breeding purposes or day old chicks, as none but those whose pens come up to the standard can secure a certificate. Those who have applied so far for an examination are: Oscar's Chicken Farm at New Paltz; Newton C. Van Etten, Lucas avenue, Kingston; C. E. Wonderly, 34 Emerson street, Kingston; Mrs. Martha Van Antwerp, Lucas avenue; Harrison Dawes, Marlborough; H. W. Hartman of Rosendale; and Elliott Soule, Jr., of Plattekill.

A Presbyterian Dinner For Men.

The ladies of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will give the men of the congregation a complimentary supper on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in the chapel. The Rev. Frederick E. Stockwell, of Newburgh, will be present and deliver the address of the evening. It is also proposed that the joint boards of the church will perfect their plans after the supper for the annual Every Member canvass which will take place on Sunday next. A thoroughly good and fraternal time is promised all who attend the supper.

NAME DELEGATES FOR CONVENTION

Republicans Congressional Committee Choose Hon. Louis F. Payne and Philip Elting as Primary Candidates at Meeting in Kingston Saturday—Hart an Alternate.

Hon. Louis F. Payne of Chatham, Columbia county, and Philip Elting of Kingston were selected as primary candidates for delegates to the Republican national convention to be held at Chicago in June, at a meeting of the Republican congressional committee of the Twenty-seventh congressional committee held in Kingston on Saturday. Their alternates are Harry C. Wright of Schoharie for Mr. Payne, and Lincoln S. Hart of Catskill for Mr. Elting.

Deputy Attorney General Sanford W. Smith of Columbia county was chairman of the meeting and William E. Thorpe of Greene county was secretary.

The members present were: Ulster county—County Treasurer John A. Snyder, Deputy County Clerk Walter G. Geroldsek, Supervisor Philip Schantz, William L. Fuller.

Columbia county—Deputy Attorney General Sanford W. Smith, Schoharie county—Charles E. Nichols and Jacob J. Eckerson. Greene county—Dayton W. Smith and Richard Bronk, by William E. Thorpe, their proxy.

Sullivan county members were not present.

After the meeting the members of the committee dined at the Stuyvesant.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, March 6.—A number of the young people of the M. E. Church gave Louis Goodrich a birthday party on Monday evening at the parsonage. As a token of their esteem they presented him with an oak smoking stand. The evening was pleasantly spent with games, and refreshments were served.

About ten members of Washington Camp, No. 24, P. O. S. of A., of this place, attended the meeting of the order at Kingston on Wednesday evening.

The ladies of the Church of the Sacred Heart served an excellent supper in Elmore Hall on Wednesday evening, March 1, which was largely attended.

Mrs. Smith, Judge Parker's foreman, had the misfortune to break one of his ribs last week.

Mrs. William Sholey has been suffering from an abscess on her left hand, which Dr. Ross lanced last evening.

Mrs. A. Wright is about again after a four weeks' illness.

George Busted is moving from the Griffiths' farm into the rooms over Mr. Freer's store.

The Epworth League will hold a masquerade social at the home of the Rev. R. M. Roberts on Wednesday evening, March 8, at 8 o'clock. Everyone is cordially invited to come, and to come masked. A fine of ten cents will be imposed upon anyone who comes unmasked. Supper will be served for twenty-five cents. A good time is promised to all who attend.

Big Minstrel Show Tonight.

This evening the members of the Colonial Rehearsal Lodge, No. 48, I. O. O. F., will give a ladies' minstrel show at their rooms, No. 26 East Strand. Twenty-four of the members will take part and a fine program has been arranged. There will be six endmen who will attend to the laughter and fun. Considerable talent is exhibited among the lodge members and those who attend are assured of a first class performance.

Note the Success

Signs

Newspaper advertising shows which way the trade is going.

Note the pages of advertising in today's Freeman and you will see at a glance that the list of merchants, manufacturers, and other advertisers comprise the most progressive and the most successful business and professional men in our community.

Advertising and success go hand in hand. You don't see a concern constantly advertising in the newspapers unless it is successful.

Also the houses that make the biggest successes nowadays do so by satisfying and pleasing the public on whom their success is based. And in order to reach the public the most successful business and professional men use newspaper advertising.

Each depends upon the other.

Good business men and goods newspapers, working together, spell success.

CHURCH RECEIVES 21 NEW MEMBERS

Sunday was a day long to be remembered by those who were privileged to attend the services at the Reformed Church of the Comforter. The church was filled both morning and evening with a worshipful and enthusiastic people. At the morning service seven received the ordinance of baptism, twenty-one were received into the membership of the church, seven by letter and thirteen on confession of faith. All of these were adults except one. So great were the number of communicants that there were not sufficient individual cups to meet the demand at the sacramental service. It was by far the largest communion in the history of the church. During the past fifteen months seventy-five have been received into the fellowship of the church, thirty-one by letter, forty-four on confession of faith. Of these, fifty have been heads of families and only four under sixteen years of age. Three of the number who have joined recently on confession have been over sixty-five years of age. It is expected that there will be full as large a class to join on Easter Sunday.

On account of the increasing congregations the consistory have just purchased twenty-five additional copies of "The Church Hymnary." The Wilbur Social Club have also purchased one hundred and fifty copies of the Tullar-Meridith song book, "The Sacrifice of Praise," which is being used at the evening service to the great pleasure of the large congregation. At the monthly cruise service in the evening the pastor preached on "Moses, the unworn king." The musical numbers consisted of a solo, "Rock of Ages" most beautifully sung in a fine clear voice of Miss Ethel Knapp; a men's chorus "Sweet and Low" which everyone enjoyed, and an anthem by the chorus "The Lost Chord," which was rendered most charmingly. Anyone who is looking for a church home in this part of the city is most cordially invited to worship with us. The church is located on Wynkoop Place, one block from Fothall avenue, and three blocks from Hasbrouck avenue.

There are many religions, but there is only one morality.—Ruskin.

PLEA FOR IDEALS IN HUMAN LIVES

Existence Divided Into Four Planes
By Irving E. Vining in Eloquent Address Before Sunday Afternoon Audience in Y. M. C. A. Auditorium.

A plea for ideals and the important part these play in human lives that are worth living was the chief note sounded by Irving Vining of New York and Ashland, Oregon, in an eloquent address before a fair-sized audience Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. Mr. Vining is pre-eminently a psychologist and his application of psychology to human problems, material and spiritual, has made him famous as lecturer before business men and rotary clubs as well as in Y. M. C. A. work in which he takes active interest.

To his subject, "Is Life Worth Living?" the speaker returned a vigorous affirmative and expressed the belief of that fact being true of Kingston. However, he asked his hearers to present their cases to the boys of the city and learn where they and their lives stand in the juvenile estimation, in itself an acid test of the success of a life work, he held.

Mr. Vining placed life on four planes, the first and lowest being the animal plane which has for its sole objects the finding of food, refuge, a soft place and pleasure in life and the avoidance of fear, pain and hunger. Many of us, he said, spend our lives upon this plane which he said was legitimate only in so far as it was regulated to keep up bodily strength and vigor. The second plane in which we seek to obtain the rewards of life and avoid punishment was portrayed as next in the scale and in this category the speaker placed some young people who remain in their homes solely because there is a place to eat and sleep with the least effort. On this same plane where the speaker placed the dog, cringing on the hearth, thousands of wage earners live and it is a plane characteristic of American life today, a plane in which graft in public office thrives, the only crime being in discovery and punishment.

These planes were pictured with a wealth of pertinent illustrations in easy fashion by the speaker who then proceeded to the next plane where effort is put forth for praise and friendly words of commendation

and for the avoidance of blame or criticism. Life, he held, was not worth living unless one had realized this plane and the last and highest of the planes was that in the inmost soul of every human being, seldom realized and never forgotten, the vision of things as they ought to be.

In dwelling upon the obstacles in the pathway of the pursuit of ideals the speaker referred in passing to the international situation, praising President Wilson's attitude proclaiming that America stands for the ideals of humanity. The material and practical side of the argument has been raised by forces at home and abroad so that we have almost been compelled to depart from this ideal, declared the speaker, who believed that no sacrifice was too great in holding to it.

"Unless you have ideals and are struggling toward their realization," he said, "your life counts for almost nothing, you are simply an echo. The greatest sorrow of life today is that there might be things which never are."

In conclusion he dwelt upon the ideals of Christ and their application to modern life, urging his hearers to keep their faith in ideals which, realized or unrealized, are after all the best in life and the things which make life worth the living.

During the meeting two duets were sung most acceptably by General Secretary and Mrs. George D. Beckwith. Assistant Secretary Sun, also presided and introduced the speaker. Among interesting facts about Mr. Vining is his activity in community work in southern Oregon, where he spends half each year. Three months of this time is giving over to hunting trips with parties numbering more than 250 boys. The folks also take great interest in the work in Ashland, where social welfare has been substituted for industrial expansion as the best subject for community effort.

COMFORTER LADIES' AID.

Annual Meeting Held and Important Business Transacted.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Church of the Comforter held its annual meeting March 11 in the lecture room of the church with a most representative gathering of women present.

The meeting opened in charge of the religious committee. Following routine matters the reports for the year were read. The secretary's report showed a growth of the society of more than one-half. The treasurer's report was so encouraging it was deservedly applauded. The flower and calling committee presented a report which, to quote another member, "was the best flower committee report ever received." At this meeting two more very welcome members were added to the society.

The society takes this opportunity of thanking its many friends who helped in so many and various ways the past year, particularly The Kingston Freeman, for the frequent use of its columns for the society's notices. The meeting was then adjourned. It was immediately called to order for the annual election. Mrs. George Shufeldt, with her usual gentle dignity, presided, and Mrs. W. F. Stowe presenting the name of the candidates. The officers of the past year were all re-elected, the only change being made in the social work, which will return to the circle arrangements found effective formerly. The chairman, their terms and assistants are as follows:

First four months, chairman, Mrs. Abram DeForrest, with Miss Askam, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Kelder, Mrs. Barnard, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Freer, Mrs. Apt, Mrs. Lasher, Mrs. Beadle and Mrs. Chauncey Freer, for assistants.

For the second four months, Mrs. W. F. Stowe, chairman, with Mrs. Shufeldt, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Elmen-dorf, Mrs. Peters, Mrs. Sagar, Mrs. Raschke, Mrs. Van Demark, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Kelse, Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Cook for assistants.

For the last of the year, Mrs. Daves Brink, chairman, with Mrs. H. Van Gaasbeek, Mrs. Parslow, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Conklin, Mrs. Elghmeyer, Mrs. Whitmore, Mrs. Darber, Mrs. Moon, Mrs. Bowers, Mrs. Baliz and Mrs. John Kelder, assistants.

This closed the year's election. The social time which followed will be long remembered. It was known that some form of refreshments would be served, but the serving committee proved that women can keep secrets for not any amount of questioning could get a knowledge of what they were to be. It was to be a surprise. It surely was, and a most delightful one.

The serving committee, all in spotless white, sheer, dainty serving aprons, long tables sparkling and dainty, all in white with decorations of leafy green, were all very attractive. The menu showed the thoughtful consideration of the serving committee from the oysters, which were served in their most acceptable form, to the dessert of cream and home made cakes. The supper was a success in every way. Much praise was given the salad, prepared by Mrs. Whitmore, in its artistic and pleasing arrangement; so attractive was its appearance some suggested not to spoil the arrangement, but after one had tasted it, one was glad to have spoiled it, for it tasted as good as it looked.

After the supper Dr. Stowe further added to the evening's enjoyment by some witty remarks, which were followed by others in similar vein by the other men present, making it indeed a gala occasion.

Gold Medal Sale Starts Tomorrow

HOOSIER

Kitchen Cabinets

Hoosier's unrivaled convenience won the Gold Medal at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, San Francisco, and this sale is to celebrate its leadership and let the public see the many ways that Hoosier excels.

People all over America will attend this great event at the Hoosier stores and we have had to prepare weeks ahead to get a special allotment of Hoosiers from the factory for our own home folks. The sale starts tomorrow and will last all week if our supply of cabinets lasts. Those who come first are sure of being supplied at once. If you don't want to wait for your cabinet, then please don't put off your visit to our store.

Remember there are Hoosiers for farms, camps, apartments, big and little kitchens, for window spaces and the center of big kitchens. No further need for old-fashioned, built-in, uncleanable cupboards.

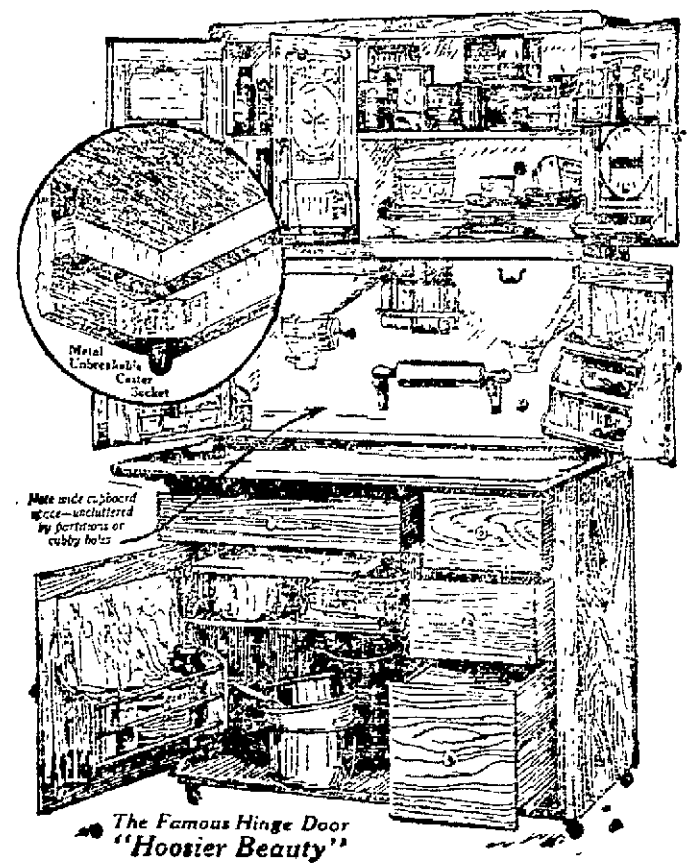

See the Demonstration of Hoosier's 40 Labor-saving Features

Every woman who wants to be up-to-date in household affairs will want to see this demonstration. You will want to see what expert men and women have achieved in cutting your kitchen work in two. How a Hoosier lets you sit down with 400 articles all handily arranged at your fingers' ends. How it ends incessant walking back and forth to gather supplies and put them away each meal.

We want you to see the many patented features that have won a million women.

have designed and located every Hoosier convenience exactly at your fingers' ends. Skilled mechanics and inventors have perfected the many working features.

Nothing Has Been Overlooked

that could improve its convenience or add to your comfort. That's why a million women use and praise the Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet for the hours of time and miles of steps it saves them. You can easily roll the Hoosier about on its ball bearing casters, and the metal sockets can't break. These, and other Hoosier Gold Medal features, will be demonstrated to all the folks who call tomorrow. Those who are not ready to buy won't be expected to. We will scarcely have enough cabinets to last the week out anyway.

But we want you to come and learn the inside facts about kitchen cabinets. If you missed this demonstration at the San Francisco Fair, this is your chance to see what interested thousands of people. Come tomorrow and bring your friends.

Feds Hold Annual Election.

On Sunday at their club rooms the Wilbur Feds Baseball Club held their first annual meeting and election of officers, which were as follows: President, F. Kenny; vice president, E. Dougherty; secretary, H. Carter; treasurer, J. McNelis. The manager and captain of this year's team will be George Cragin and Ira Bush. After the regular business a social time was had. Henry Carter rendered a few popular selections on the piano and Fred Sioudi contributed to the afternoon's entertainment by singing several of the latest airs in his masterly way. The meeting adjourned sine die.

"My New Cante" Tonight.

Tonight the St. Mary's Dramatic Society will present "My New Cante" which will be at 8 o'clock for the benefit of the Home of the Holy Childhood. This makes the fourth presentation of this play which has been seen by over two thousand people of this city. The same capable cast that presented it recently will appear tonight and that is all that need be said of the quality of the performance. Undoubtedly the play will be greeted by another packed house when the curtain rises this evening.

PASTOR WILHELM HAS RESIGNED

At the Sunday services at the Immanuel Lutheran Church on Livingston street, the pastor the Rev. Frederick P. Wilhelm, announced his resignation to take effect shortly after Easter, as he has accepted a call to take charge of the organization of a Lutheran congregation and the building of a church in Bronxville, Westchester county.

PASTOR WILHELM

The church at Bronxville will be organized immediately and it is being built for the faculty and student body of the Concordia Evangelical Lutheran College. This college prepares the young men for their course of training for the ministry in the theological seminary at St. Louis.

Pastor Wilhelm assumed the pastorate of the Livingston Street Church in 1907, and under his efficient pastorate the church property has been renovated and a number of improvements made, creating an indebtedness of over $5,000, which has practically been cleared up, leaving a balance of about $600. The church since Pastor Wilhelm assumed charge has become one of the most important in the city.

When the Kingston Branch of the American Independence Union was organized he was elected president, which office he still holds.

Just who will succeed Pastor Wilhelm at the local church is not known as yet. Since Pastor Wilhelm assumed the pastorate of the local church he has made a host of friends not only among his own congregation, but the city at large. He will assume his new duties shortly after Easter Sunday.

Athletics at Y. M. C. A.

Another fast game of basketball was staged at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening when the Employed Boys defeated the Central Five by a score of 24 to 21. The employed boys were McArdle, McCann, Carpenter, McHugh and Rhymer, while the Central Five were Hughes, Cannon, Gregory, J. Rourke, Leuffgen and Rourke.

Wednesday evening another fast game will be staged at the association when the Employed Boys will play Ellenville. The game will be called at 8 o'clock and a small admission will be charged.

Wednesday evening another match game in the Y. M. C. A. Church Bowling League will also be rolled when the teams of the Roundout Presbyterian Church and the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will clash.

Preparations are already underway for the big circus to be given in the association gym on April 25 and 26. This circus will be even better than that of last year.

Look Trouble in the Face.

It is well to learn to look physical trouble in the face; to cheerfully order one's life for better living, without making too much fuss about it; to take care of one's health as a simple obligation to one's self, to one's family and to the community; but not to regard every ache and pain as a national calamity.

All, All Alone.

J. Fuller Gloom: "So many people differ with me on practically everything I advocate that I often feel like a single noodle of sense afloat in an ocean of idiocy."

Some Symphony Concert.

A Bangor (Me.) woman, who had occasion to visit an office in the building in which a poultry show was being held one afternoon, heard the noise and innocently remarked: "Why, I didn't know there was a symphony concert this afternoon." She thought the musicians were tuning up in the corridor back of the stage.

Only on the Stage.

Husbands have become so kind and considerate that a woman has to go to the theater in order to realize how tyrannical and cruel society is toward her sex.

Optimism.

The spirit which is whole has no room for the suffering of fear. It can meet life and do battle with it cheerfully; work and friendship and the daily round of events fill it to the exclusion of all phantoms; it is a joy to overcome obstacles, to right mistakes and to endure hardships in the hope of better days to come.

Love Flies From Demand.

So far from there being anything divine in the low and proprietary "Do you love me?" it is only when you leave and lose me, by casting yourself on a sentiment that is higher than both of us, that I draw near, and find myself at your side; and I am repelled, if you fix your eye upon me, and demand love.—Emerson.

"THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE"

By J. Stuart Blackton

Featuring Charles Richman and other eminent Vitagraph Stars

"THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE."—Synopsis:

Hudson Maxim, international authority on arms and ammunition, delivers a lecture graphically describing America's defenseless condition. John Harrison, inspired by Maxim's disclosures and realizing the awful consequences to which our national unpreparedness may lead, resolves to consecrate his every effort to the cause of adequate defense. He is engaged to Virginia Vandergriff, whose father is an advocate of national disarmament and "Peace at any Price." John makes a fruitless effort to show Vandergriff the fallacy of his stand. Vandergriff's friend, Emanuel, ostensibly a peace propagandist, but in reality a foreign spy, is the head of a band of conspirators plotting the invasion of America. The invaders approach New York. The news reaches a huge peace meeting at which Vandergriff is a speaker. In the midst of this meeting a shell crashes through the walls of the building. The battleships of the enemy, out of range of the guns of Forts Hamilton, Hancock and Wadsworth, are able to bombard New York.

Shells are devastating the buildings in the downtown district. Homes are desecrated; citizens slain without mercy. Terror reigns.

John's mother and sister are killed. Vandergriff is shot in the street. John is bayoneted in defense of the girl he loves. As a climax to the horror, Virginia's mother, to avoid disgrace at the hands of the enemy, kills her two daughters and herself.

An allegorical masterpiece is shown contrasting Columbia, crushed, bleeding and trampled upon by a merciless foe with Columbia as she should be—proud, commanding, supreme.

"Yes, there shall be peace—but peace with plenty—peace with honor."

(By La Raconteuse.)

The extreme turned up brim as shown on many of the dressy hats created by Georgette, affords a charming frame for the face of the wearer, possessing piquant features. The hat illustrated with its wide turned up brim is softened by the ripples that are evident. The hat is developed in navy straw and faced with satin in a matching tone. Clusters of ostrich tips in flesh color afford a smart note.

BAKER-FORMAN DISPUTE ARGUED

Judge Hasbrouck Reserves Decision on Complications Growing out of the Sale of the Wolven Store Property on Wall Street.

The dispute between Max Baker, Frank Forman and the Shatemuck Realty Company over the terms of sale of the William Wolven store, in which an application was made for an injunction to restrain the sale of the property, stock and fixtures to anyone except Baker, was argued before Judge Hasbrouck at supreme court chambers at noon today, by Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., for Baker; Judge Van Etten for Forman and the Shatemuck Realty Company, and Judge Clearwater for Mrs. Ella Wolven England, the present owner who is under contract to sell the Shatemuck for $33,500, of which amount $13,500 already has been paid to her.

Forman Did Not Want Competition.

Baker's claim in regard to the negotiations by which he expected to come into possession of the property, and the refusal of the Shatemuck Realty Company to deliver it to him, and Frank Forman's refusal to furnish $8,000 on second mortgage, have been stated in the Freeman several days ago. In addition, Mr. Brinnier read to Judge Hasbrouck an agreement which was presented to Baker on February 25th, by the terms of which he was to pay the Shatemuck Realty Company $500 for its commissions and services, and was to pay $33,500 for the property, stock and fixtures.

A provision of the agreement states that no ladies' suits, coats or furnishings shall be sold on any part of the premises for a period of ten years without the permission of the Shatemuck Realty Company. Mr. Baker refused to sign this agreement because, he says, the original agreement made with the Shatemuck Realty Company and Frank Forman provided only that the store should not be conducted as a ladies' cloak and suit store for that period.

Both Parties Sought Same Agent.

Judge Van Etten said that both Baker and Forman had sought the Shatemuck Realty Company to negotiate for the sale of the property. The company's officials, Schuyler C. Schultz and Arthur J. Burns, brought them together to discuss terms of sale, but no price could be obtained from Judge Clearwater, who represented Mrs. England, until the inventory was completed.

At the joint interview between Forman, Baker, Schultz and Burns, Forman expressed willingness to buy the property and Baker said he had been trying to establish his crockery store there.

Forman said he was interested in getting a first class store there, and one which would not be a competitor in his own line of business. Both Baker and Forman agreed that such a plan would be satisfactory to them.

Forman Acts On Own Judgment.

When they began talking about the price, Baker thought the store, stock and fixtures could be purchased for $28,000. When that proposition was made to Judge Clearwater, he said he already had an offer of $31,300, whereupon the Shatemuck officials consulted Baker and Forman. Baker said he must consult his wife. Forman stated that if he wanted to buy the property, he wouldn't consult his wife, for she wouldn't be satisfied with his judgment, but it was agreed to wait twenty-four hours. Baker said he had $4,000 in Kingston banks and $8,000 in Brooklyn banks; he wanted the Shatemuck Company to procure someone who would advance $12,000 on first mortgage and wanted Forman to advance $8,000 on second mortgage.

Did Baker Get "Cold Feet?"

Baker at that time, said Judge Van Etten, said that if the price went above $32,000 they could "count him out."

To this, Forman remarked: "What's the matter, Baker, are you getting cold feet? If you can't get the place for $32,000, I'll go more than that, and here's my check for $2,000 now."

Forman, said Judge Van Etten, would have been willing to go considerably higher than $33,500.

Closing Deal on Short Notice.

Schultz took Forman's check for $2,000 to Judge Clearwater, who wanted $35,000 for the property. Mrs. England was consulted and Judge Clearwater finally agreed to accept $33,500, but announced that if the offer was not accepted before the Shatemuck officials walked out of his office, the offer didn't hold good. Schultz consulted Forman and turned over the check to Judge Clearwater. The affidavits of the Shatemuck Company, he said, stated that they bought the property as agent for Forman, as Baker had not authorized them to pay more than $32,000 for it.

Did Baker Want to "Come Back?"

When Baker learned that the property had been sold, said Judge Van Etten, he tried to come back and renew negotiations. Forman was then willing to allow him to take the property and to advance the $8,000 on second mortgage, provided Baker would agree not to sell any ladies' suits, coats or furnishings for ten years, but Baker refused to sign that agreement. The stock in the store consisted largely of winter and spring styles, which should be sold at once and delay in selling them meant loss.

Wolven Had Lucrative Business.

Judge Clearwater reviewed briefly the propositions which had been made to him as counsel for Mrs. England and said that Mrs. England had not the slightest knowledge of who the purchaser was until she was served with papers in the present action commenced by Baker.

In reference to the offers for the store, stock and fixtures, Judge Clearwater said the business had been much more lucrative than anyone imagined. William Wolven at the time of his death left no unpaid bills for goods and his total indebtedness amounted to less than $1,000, to pay which were bank deposits for eight times that amount. The inventory showed the stock to be worth $17,649 at cost price, and much of it had been bought for spring sales.

Of the $33,500 which the Shatemuck Realty Company had agreed to pay her, the sum of $13,500 already had been paid, and she expected that the balance of $20,000 would be paid by March 10th, in accordance with the contract of sale.

Only One Point; Decision Reserved.

Judge Hasbrouck said the entire point of the controversy was whether Baker was in on the $33,500 offer. Mr. Brinnier said the statement that Baker had refused to go above $32,000 was news to him and he wished to submit affidavits on that point. As to Baker having cold feet, he remembered speaking of that when Baker, Schultz, Burns and Forman were at his office, and asking Baker about it. Baker replied that if the price went to $35,000 or $36,000 he was not in it. If the Shatemuck Realty Company had been acting as agent for Forman, why, he asked, was the agreement submitted to Baker on February 25th, which Baker refused to sign because it was different from the agreement he had originally made with Forman? Judge Hasbrouck directed that Baker had until Tuesday noon to submit affidavits, and that twelve hours would be allowed the other parties to submit replying affidavits. In regard to Mrs. England, he would see that she was not prevented from carrying out her contract by March 10th.

UPWARDS OF 125 GUESTS AT DINNER

Heads of Transportation Companies to Meet With Kingston Business Men at Chamber of Commerce Banquet Tonight at the Stayve-Sant.

Heads of railroad and steamship lines serving Kingston will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce tonight at a Transportation Dinner to be served at the Hotel Stayve-Sant and the sale of tickets this afternoon indicated a gratifying attendance of 125 representative business and professional men of the city. Muller's orchestra will discourse music from 7 o'clock on and a reception will be tendered the guests at 7:30, with dinner at 8 o'clock.

President C. R. Leighton and the painstaking chairmen of the social and transportation committees, L. F. Bannon and John B. Kearney, have given considerable time to the arrangements for the affair and it is expected that every appointment will be complete.

Several of the visiting officials will speak on the transportation situation affecting Kingston and its manufacturers. Among the speakers will be Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., Herbert R. Odell, of the Hudson River Steamboat Company, G. A. White, of the Hudson River Day Line; G. B. Tebow, of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company; W. R. Quackenbush, of the Ontario & Western Railroad; C. C. Howard and C. A. McMichael, of the New York Central Lines; Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck of the Steigensburgh ferry; H. H. Flemming, of the Ulster & Delaware railroad, the Kingston and Rhinebeck ferry and the Cornell Steamboat Company; and James F. Loughran, county superintendent of highways.

RIVER DRIVERS A BIT TOO CORDIAL

Near-Fights Over Fares Makes Hudson River Service Unpopular With Patrons—Old Man Run Down by One Jehu.

Complaints are being made by pedestrians crossing the river of the behavior of drivers looking for fares. When a passenger approaches the river on either shore there is a concert of demands for his fare and his baggage is almost taken out of his hands. One older man complained on Sunday that he was run down by one of the drivers after he had decided to walk across the river. He exhibited a bruised elbow. He said that in some instances the driver would ask a half dollar for fares once a person got aboard a sleigh.

Two other drivers became involved in a fight on the Rhinecliff side and to add to their troubles one of their horses ran away. A yelling mob of horsemen drove after the rig, which was finally caught by Charles Low, who jumped from his iceboat and got aboard the sleigh just before the horse reached the open water of the ice canal. Low did not get even a smile by way of reward for his plucky feat.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Andrew McMullen, of the town of New Paltz has been filed in the surrogate's court and a citation for its probate has been issued returnable March 20. To his grand nephew, Andrew Yeaple, the testator bequeaths the sum of $500, and the balance of the estate is given by the testator to his wife, Sarah J. McMullen, whom he appoints executrix. The will was executed June 19, 1915, and witnessed by John N. Vanderlyn and Kathryn V. Cumiskey. The value of the real estate is $2,000 and the personal property amounts to $450. John N. Vanderlyn appeared for the executrix.

Musical Evening at St. Joseph's.

Tuesday evening a fine program of musical numbers will be given at St. Joseph's Hall, beginning at 8:15 o'clock. The first half of the program will be given as a scene, "An Evening at Home," when the following soloists will appear: Miss Cusack, Miss Humphrey, Miss Heidecamp, vocal soloists; Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy, in a piano and banjo guitar number; Miss Mary Elizabeth Sullivan, who will give a reading, "In the Palace of the King;" Miss Gertrude Rafferty, who will give a piano solo. In the second half of the program, Mr. Riccobone will favor the audience with a "cello solo;" Little Miss Earna Schmidt will give an exhibition of aesthetic solo dancing, with Miss Delta Boice at the piano; Mr. McCarthy will give a tenor solo; there will be another reading by Miss Sullivan; Miss Helen Dwyer will give a solo dance; and the program will close with an operatic selection, accompanied by piano, violin and cello, sung by a favorite soprano soloist of the city and closing with a chorus.

Spread stained portion over a bowl containing one quart of water and one teaspoonful borax. Apply hydrochloric acid, drop by drop, until stain brightens, then dip stain at once into water. If not removed, use same method until stains disappear. Care should be taken to use either borax or ammonia or soap in rinsing water.

Close to the Truth.

A friend came to visit us one evening and became much attached to my little niece, who is three years old. She was asked: "How would you like to visit me some time, dear? I live in a big boarding house." The child replied quickly: "Oh, I know what that is. You sit alone in one room and eat in the basement."—Exchange.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 6, 1916.

Manliness is obviously a pretty scarce quality among the Democrats who control Congress, and the situation has for several days become more and more disgusting. It was bad enough for the Senate to lay on the table a self-contradictory resolution, but the House has surpassed it by refusing even to do as little as that until the primaries in Indiana tomorrow are over. Evidently, these Hoosier statesmen care more forrenomination than they do for the interests of their country. This sentiment is not so rare among their kind, but it is seldom so frankly avowed. It must be interesting to Indians to know that their chosen representatives are trying to get the votes of some of them under false pretences. Equally detestable is the spectacle of Bryan, who is actual dictator to a large portion of the Democratic party, going to Washington in this crisis and hobnobbing with the foes of the President in a conspiracy to thwart him in his policy. The picture of the house divided against itself that cannot stand presents itself forcibly to the mind. Most intolerable of all is the absurdity of the central proposition that the Government warn its citizens to keep off ships owned by citizens of belligerent nations. No American is going to risk his life in a quarrel not his own unless some sort of duty compels him. Europe is not attractive to more pleasure seekers. Consequently, no warning is needed, and only a self-seeking coward can favor a renunciation of the principle that our Government should protect its citizens who are traveling on lawful business.

Working in the school children as revenue-producers for some cause or other does not, unfortunately, come within the scope of our child labor laws. If it did, raising money for battleships would go by the board and such projects be left to the proper authorities, the expense to be borne by taxation. It may be that the administration now in power would like nothing better than to have a battleship handed over by American boys and girls, an easy method of increasing the navy without increasing the deficit. It is a fact that North Carolina, the native State of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, has upwards of 5,000 child laborers between the ages of ten and thirteen years. Who knows but that condition this child labor battleship idea owes some of its acceleration, if not its inspiration? A metropolitan newspaper has proved an effective champion of this fund and the plan at the outset was commended in these columns as being useful to the extent of indicating the popular sentiment in favor of a greater navy. But it hardly seems to be necessary to our national defense to pass the hat in the public schools for dime contributions, which is what acceptance of such gifts by teachers implies.

If children are to contribute to this function of government, why confine the object to a battleship? Why not extend it to deepening the Hudson or other government projects which Congress has neglected along with a greater navy? There is no end to the subjects which might as properly be put up to juvenile sentimentality. As a matter of fact children are doing altogether too much along these lines now, although upholders seem hardly conscious of this truth. In our own State children in rural districts are making a farm census which, in the mere matter of accuracy at least, will bear comparison with the recent State census in which men were engaged at fair salaries. Then, too, there are the Christmas sales by the children, whose proceeds go to social welfare work, which is a most proper charge upon a community. If this latter is correct, it is as a community charge that this expense should be included in the taxes rather than raised by any hit-or-miss volunteer subscription plan in which children are exploited because of their powers of appeal to adult purses. Childhood is getting to be altogether too brief in duration anyway. It should be left free to be itself without regard to building battleships or aiding other problems of the world of grown-ups into which children are admitted quite soon enough as it is.

Social leaders can burn their bridges as well as the military strategists. And in the cases of the Palm Beach society women who recently figured in motion pictures these figurative bridges will be the only things burned, although the agreement in the making of the films was that they were to be consigned to the flames after a single exhibition. Whether or not the films deserved a flaming fate is not stated, but they are to be produced in New York as well as in Florida, as might have been expected from the first. Life at a Florida winter resort is just one photograph after another, to judge from the newspapers. There is nothing melancholic in the attire or anatomy of the subjects and even a fixed look is invariably pleasant, such is the degree of nicety that the art of motion photography has reached. With due consideration to the troubles of camera men and the war-booster price for inflammable film material the pity of consigning the pictures to the fire is apparent. Besides there are the war sufferers to be considered. So many artistic crimes have been perpetrated in their name that the sacrifice of modesty in this connection will be all the more to the credit of the fair performers. The willingness of the latter to become martyrs to the movies and to suffer for the sufferers will thus be all the better understood and even more widely appreciated at its full worth.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, March 6.—Miss Edna Harper, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Groves on Broadway, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

On Wednesday evening, March 8, the members of Hope Lodge, No. 65, K. of P., and their families are invited to the present at the Castle Hall at 7 o'clock when a social evening will be spent together. An entertainment, consisting of vocal and instrumental music will be rendered, and refreshments served. It is hoped that a large number will be present.

On Friday evening, March 17, the Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will tender a reception to the congregation of the church in the Sunday school room. Entertainment, refreshments, etc., and a general good time.

Recital at Woodstock.

The musical recital, given by Mrs. R. R. Cooper's class, at her residence in Woodstock, on March 3, was a decided success, an excellent selection being rendered with much enthusiasm on part of the pupils. After the musical program a social hour proved most enjoyable, and was followed by a delicious supper, served in the dining room. Both the table and dining room were tastefully decorated to suit the occasion. In departing each pupil thanked the teacher for her interest shown them in their work and for her delightful entertainment.

Missionary Society on Wednesday.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Reformed Church will be held at the residence of Mrs. Charles G. Ellis on Wurts street on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This will be the annual meeting and a special service will be held. Mrs. Louise Patterson will lead the meeting and a fine program has been arranged.

DAIRY GOSSIP.

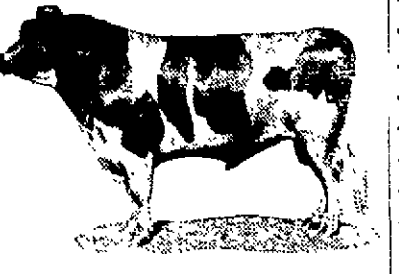

Don't let the cows out in the storms to stand around. It does not pay.
The cows that produce the largest amounts of butter fat do it most economically.
The calves should by all means be kept in clean, well lighted and ventilated stables.
A gallon of cream testing 25 per cent should churn a little over two pounds of butter.
The object of cow testing and keeping records is to improve the herd and increase the output.

PRODUCTIVENESS IN AGED COWS IMPORTANT

It is of paramount importance to the dairyman that a dairy cow should not only be a large producer in her prime, but that she should possess the constitution to continue to be a profitable cow and a regular breeder to a ripe old age. A cow that is still lucrative when she is sixteen or eighteen years old is worth far more to her owner than a cow whose productive life ceases when she is about nine or ten years old. In the latter instance the depreciation is so great that the profits are seriously curtailed.

The official records made by the cows of each breed ten years of age or over give perhaps the best idea of productiveness of the different breeds in old age. The Holstein cow, Valdessa Scott II, who made at the age of eight years two months one day, 33.59 pounds fat from 694.6 pounds milk in seven days, came back at the age of ten years two months sixteen days and made 29.99 pounds fat from 611.4 pounds milk in seven days, and 113.96 pounds fat from 2,455.7 pounds milk in thirty days. These butter records for seven and thirty days are unequalled by any ten-year-old cow in the world, says a correspondent of Kimball's Dairy Farmer.

Among the most striking records made by the oldest cows in the advanced registries of the different breed associations is that of the Holstein cow Mark, who made 13.61 pounds fat from 418.4 pounds milk in seven days, freshening at eighteen years ten months twenty-one days. Another Holstein cow, Lavera Hortensia Beauty, calving at the age of seventeen years eleven months fourteen days, made

With her large frame, strength and vigor, the Holstein cow comes naturally by a hardiness that lessens her susceptibility to disease, makes it possible for her to thrive under ordinary care and gives her a long and useful life. With these same factors go unusual digestive powers, making her the greatest of machines for the conversion of the coarse feeds of the farm into money value. The bull shown is a Holstein.

16.81 pounds fat from 581 pounds milk in seven days, beginning her record seventy-two days after freshening.

The oldest Guernsey cow in their advanced registry, Belle Brandon, made 428.43 pounds fat from 8,061.3 pounds milk in a year, calving at the age of fifteen years.

Pegis Irene II, a Jersey who holds all yearly records for her breed for cows over twelve years of age, made 15.75 pounds fat from 282.3 pounds milk in seven days and 590.4 pounds fat from 9,030 pounds milk in 367 days, calving at eighteen years of age.

The average profitable productive life of a cow is being greatly prolonged by the official test, and it will probably not be long until instances of great records made by cows eighteen and twenty years old will be as common as the large records made by cows eleven and twelve years of age that are being reported at the present time.

Skim a Fairly Thick Cream.
Farmers will make more money by separating a reasonably thick cream than a thin cream. Skimming high test cream leaves more skim milk on the farm to feed to hogs, calves and chickens. Skim milk utilized in this way has a feeding value of about 25 cents per hundred, while if the milk is left in the cream nothing is realized. The buttermaker usually wants a cream testing around 35 or 40 per cent butter fat. In the winter if the cream is above 40 per cent it is rather difficult to get the cream all out of one can into another or into a vat. Cream testing about 35 per cent in the winter and 30 per cent in the summer is right for butter making.

Oilmeal Better Than Cottonseed.
We consider oilmeal a little better than the whole, than cottonseed meal, says Hoard's Dairyman. Oilmeal is not as rich in protein as cottonseed meal, but it contains other properties which give it a preference. This is especially true if there are no slag or roots to feed. Oilmeal has a good diuretic effect upon the animal's digestion. In other words, it tends to overcome the constipating effect of its feed. It helps to keep the animal's digestion in good condition.

His Future.
"When I was your age I worked fourteen hours a day," said the worried father. "Well, what of it?" replied the young man who squanders.
"Nothing much. Only when you get to be my age that is probably what you will have to do."

city for first time since warrant for his arrest on charge of abduction was issued in 1903, when he eloped with Minnie Storm of this city.

Edward, 6 year old son of Richard Fox, had his leg broken.

Rosendale Property at Auction.
Everett Fowler, as referee in the mortgage foreclosure action brought by George L. LeFever against Harry Axelrod and others, sold at auction at the court house at noon Saturday the Axelrod property on Main street in the village of Rosendale. It was sold to the plaintiff for $725. Virgil B. Van Wagoner appeared for the plaintiff.

Words That Live.
It was Baxter, chaplain in Oliver Cromwell's army, author of "The Saints' Rest" and other books, who dug up from an obscure seventeenth-century writer, Rupertus Meldanius, and made current coin these golden words: "In essentials, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; and in both, charity."

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Loyal Friends' Aid Society will hold their regular meeting Tuesday evening, March 7, at the Hebrew school rooms, on Spring street. It is urged that all members be present as considerable routine business is to be transacted.

A linen shower and surprise party was given by Miss Emily Bracolly, in honor of Miss Rose Rafalowsky Sunday evening at her residence, 352 Broadway. Those who attended were: Miss Rose Rafalowsky and her future husband S. Simon, Emily Bracolly, Betty Cohen, Sarah Jacobson, Sarah Yallum, Fannie Rosenthal, Fannie Goldwasser, Fannie Kaplan, Esther Kaplan, Esther Sillor, Etta Vogel, Ella Vogel. A very fine time was enjoyed by those present. The party broke up at an early hour to enable the guests to get to their respective homes before the cars stopped running and all voted Miss Rose Rafalowsky a very enjoyable host.

Master Oscar Richter was tendered a birthday party in honor of his thirteenth birthday the first of the month at his home. Games and music helped to make the occasion an enjoyable one. The game of "Donkey" was also played and first prize was won by Frederick DuBois and the consolation prize by Charles Brown. After the games and music refreshments were served. A pretty birthday cake with thirteen candles formed the center piece while the favors were place cards with sham, rock, pipes and hats. The guests were Marion Rosa, Mary Kyer, Nellie Finnigan, Myrtis Knapp, Helen Richter, Donald Church, Frederick DuBois, Raymond Bishop, Kenneth Carson, Charles Brown, Ralph Finnigan, Alfred Finnigan, Herman Boyle, William Boyle and Leroy Richter.

Arthur Herschmann of New York city, the noted baritone concert and oratorio soloist, who so delighted Kingston music lovers when he gave a recital at St. Mary's Hall at a reception and musicale given by Mrs. A. V. V. Kenyon last year, has been spending the week end in town and has been the guest of Mrs. Kenyon. The Kingston Symphony Society has been greatly interested in Mr. Herschmann, especially since it has been known that he has been selected as the soloist at the famous Bach Festival at Bethlehem, Pa., an honor indeed coveted by oratorio soloists all over the country. On Sunday afternoon, Mr. Herschmann visited the rehearsal of the Kingston Symphony Society, held in Symphony Hall, and listened with gratified surprise to a second reading of the first movement of the Haydn Symphony to be given in the near future, by the orchestra. He expressed himself as indeed impressed with both the work and the seriousness of the musician and said that he had sung with more than one professional orchestra which could not begin to measure up to the musicianship of the Kingston orchestra, yet he heard them at a rough rehearsal. Then he gave the musicians a rare treat by singing several selections, for the musicians, including a solo from Haydn's "Orpheus," another selection from Robin Hood, and some shorter numbers. Mr. Herschmann's magnificent voice and artistic ability charmed his hearers, and every effort will be put forth by the Symphony Society to secure Mr. Herschmann as the special soloist for the coming Spring Festival, when the Oratorio of Elijah will be given. Whether this can be accomplished will depend somewhat upon the patronage of the people of Kingston.

Robinson-Myer.

Luther Robinson and Miss Jennie Belle Myer were married by the Rev. Henry L. Hoag on Friday evening. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Myer of Livingston street, Saugerties, and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson of Flatbush. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are spending their honeymoon in Newburgh.

Whelan-Quinn.

Martin J. Whelan of Brooklyn and Miss Julia A. Quinn, of No. 4 Webster street, were quietly married on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at St. Mary's Church by the Rev. D. J. Gilmartin. The bridal couple left on the 4:17 o'clock train that afternoon for New York and Brooklyn, where they will spend their honeymoon. Both bride and groom have a host of friends who wish them a long and prosperous married life.

Leap Year Dance.

Friday evening a leap year dance was given at Mechanics Hall by the G. A. Club Girls which was one of the most successful events of its sort during the season. The music was furnished by Steve Miller's orchestra and they are to be commended for the excellent manner in which they played the various dances. The event is long to be remembered by those who were so fortunate as to attend. The Misses Helen Craig, Lena Kotler, Annabell Diamond, Marcia Cobb, Carrie Cahill, Mrs. Randall Freer, Carrie Cism, Matilda Rice, Elizabeth Rieser, Carrie McCullough, Lillian Wolf, Edith Gakenheimer, Laura Gakenheimer, Helen Castle, Helen Diamond, Kitty Becker, Lillian Kolts, Nora Hartman, Emma Dittmar, Miss Cahill, Hilda Kolts, Kathleen Deyo, Gladys Freleigh, Harriet Welch, Eva Palen and the Messrs. George Schantz, Lester Elmendorf, Milton Cole, Herman LaTour, Harry Rieser, William Michael, Abe Moynaux, James McKee, Robert Brown, Harold Myers, James Van Valkenburg, Louis Kegler, Fred Weber, Harry Wieber, Thomas Dolan, George Dittmar, James Cahill, Clyde Wood, Claude Van Buren, Clarence Rowland, Frank Hafferty, Herman Britell, Frank McConnell and Clarence Schoonmaker.

Aldala-Gentile.

A pretty wedding took place at St. Joseph's Church Sunday afternoon when Miss Rose C. Gentile, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gentile of 556 Broadway, became the bride of Anthony Aldala, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aldala of New York city. The nuptials were performed by the Rev. Thomas B. Brown, assistant pastor of the church. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Gertrude Rieser. The bride was most charming in a gown of white crepe de chene and satin, with silver lace trimming. She wore a veil of white embroidered silk with lace trimming and carried a beautiful bouquet of white lilies of the valley and roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Angelina Catina, wore a pretty gown of white Georgette crepe and chiffon over pink trimming. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas. Harry Mavica of New York city and friend of the groom was best man. After the ceremony a wedding reception was held at Kennedy Hall on Broadway and Muller's orchestra furnished music. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aldala, Harry and Joseph Aldala, brothers of the groom and all from New York city, Frank Gentile, Miss Anna Naples, Miss Catherine Gentile, Miss Rose Gentile, Patrick Naples and Miss Mary Gentile. Both bride and groom have many friends who join in wishing them a long and happy married life.

Baby Week Entertainment.

Tomorrow, Tuesday, the lessons of Baby Week will be presented in picture entertainment, that will perhaps drive home the truths of the need of Child Welfare work, as nothing else could. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock—mark the time, please, 4 o'clock—the pictures and entertainment will be given at St. Mary's Hall, for the benefit of the school children of the entire city, the small sum of ten cents admission being charged. To begin with, there will be lantern slides shown, that will picture many phases of child welfare work. This will be followed by a charming song and dance given by Little Miss Helen Clark. Then will come the playette, "The Theft of Thistle-down," a lovely fairy production with a lesson to it. The little folks have been specially trained for this entertainment by T. H. Richards and Mrs. Vernon Hull. The Freeman has been asked to make the following correction as to the names of some of the little people taking part. Margaret Healey will be one of the cloud fairies; solo dances will be given by both Margery Richards and Robert Hart. Olive Marsh will be one of the queen's attendants. A full cast of characters appeared in The Freeman last week.

In the evening, the same pleasing and instructive program will be given and will be followed by dancing. Swartz's orchestra furnishing the music. The evening performance will begin at eight o'clock, and will also be given at St. Mary's Hall.

In connection with the exhibit at the Federation House, it should be stated that Miss Barry, of the State Health Department, is now at the Federation House in full charge of a special exhibit, and will there give all necessary instruction to mothers, etc.

A large attendance at the entertainment tomorrow afternoon and evening will insure the necessary money to pay the expenses of Baby Week, and for further child welfare and public health work in the community.

The Coterie.

The Coterie met on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Flemming and held a meeting of unusual interest. Under the main topic of "Women in Social Problems," Mrs. Thompson had the only paper, on "Women Keepers for Women Prisoners." She told how the first discussion of any such need as women keepers for women prisoners, had been instigated by Elizabeth Fry, in 1817. This woman was a literary light of her day, and she vividly put before the public the horrors and needs of prison life, and especially the inhuman treatment of women prisoners. In spite of the discussion which she aroused, it had taken upwards of one hundred years to bring about any real reform. As potent factors in these recent reforms were named Mrs. Haddon, woman keeper of Sherborn, Mass.; Mrs. Welshe, in charge of the women at Auburn; Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, police commissioner of Boston, Mass., and Katherine B. Davis, police commissioner of New York city. Mrs. Thomas told most interestingly of the lives of these women, and of the wonderful reforms they had brought about, both as to sanitary conditions and educational and redemptive work. Mrs. Brown had the next paper, her subject being under the general topic, "Women in Science," "Women as Inventors." Mrs. Brown found, after careful investigation that women had contributed in only a small way to the inventions of the world. Records showed that out of 4,000 inventions only an average of 5 had been patented by women, and these for the most part domestic articles, wearing apparel, etc., not anything really affecting the progress of the world. Mary Keys was cited as the first woman inventor, her invention being a weaving apparatus that had proven very useful. Mme. Herschel, also, in working with her husband, had invented some instruments used in astronomical work. This paper was also full of interest. Under the same general topic, Miss A. Fuller had a most excellent paper on "Madame Curie and Sophia Kavallesky." She told of Madame Curie, now a woman of but 43 years of age, who discovered radium, at first naming it colonium, after Colon. She also told of the many curses which she had effected throughout Bohemia, by means of the use of radium. She is the only woman who has ever held a chair in the University of Paris, and to her have been awarded the Nobel prizes for Sweden and France. A sketch of her early life, her love and her marriage, together with her husband, Madame Curie has done a vast deal for the cure of many ills to which human flesh is heir. Sophia Kavallesky, born in Poland, stands out as the most celebrated woman mathematician in the world, the peer and in some instances, the superior of great masculine mathematicians. Though living in a little Polish town, one hundred miles from a railroad, she was carefully taught by a Polish tutor, who early discovered her wonderful gift, and urged her fullest cultivation of her talent. Even as a child, she had shown much ingenuity and originality in the solving of difficult problems. With all her rare ability she is very feminine and retiring. She holds the chair of mathematics in one of the German Universities, and was the first woman holding a chair in the University of Stockholm. To her was given the five hundred dollars, the usual amount, it was made one thousand dollars. As usual, the program was

Life and Character Reading

MARCH 6

In this horoscope is found mechanical talent, the ability to absorb knowledge, the love of music and ambition.

This nature is not elastic. It does not easily recover from failure and misfortune. This is a fault which should be fought against for it will hinder all success.

The governing planets are Neptune and Jupiter. Many long journeys will be taken. The latter part of life will be more settled and calm than the first part.

The birthstone is a moonstone. The happiest marriage will be made with a person whose birthdate falls between July 20 and August 2.

Automobiles will be sold or exchanged with profit through the Want Ads.

SHOULD NOT FIGHT FOR JOY OF ONE OF FOOL

Minority Leader Mann Starts Debate on Submarine Question and Tersely States What He Says is Attitude of Majority.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 6.—Minority Leader Mann precipitated a debate on the international situation on the floor of the house this afternoon.

He expressed the attitude of what he termed a majority of the members of congress as follows:

"I hope our citizens will be so advised that we will not have to fight over some fool who has entered upon a joy ride at sea."

Mann declared that a canvass of the members of the house showed that a big majority felt that way about it. While there was no opportunity of getting a vote on the McLeure resolution today, Mann's declaration provoked a spirited debate.

Representative Gardner of Massachusetts declared that a large number of gentlemen on both sides of the house who are afraid of a straight vote on the McLeure resolution are moving heads and hands to prevent its consideration.

"We must not delay longer in considering this resolution, badly drawn as it is, or some other genuine warning resolution," he said.

"We don't want a 'fake' resolution setting forth that while it is unquestionably the right of Americans to travel on armed belligerent merchantmen, it is the sense of the house that it would be best if they did not insist on their rights."

In answer to a question, Gardner said tabling the Gore resolution in the senate was anything but a clear action and that the senate was a victim of its own rules.

A Curtain Caught Fire.

A lace curtain catching fire from the flames of a gas range in the home of Michael Altomari, No. 15 Hill street, caused an alarm of fire to be rung in from box 17, shortly before 12 o'clock today, calling out the fire department. The curtain was pulled down and thrown out in the yard. There was no other damage.

SOFT COAL MINERS GET AN INCREASE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 6.—It was reported on high authority that the soft coal operations of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania had granted a wage increase to the miners when the morning session of the wage scale conference came to a close at the Hotel McAlpin. However, no official announcement was made.

The friction which had been so apparent at the conference on Saturday over the new proposition to increase the Indiana wage scale a cent and one-half over the schedule of Illinois was greatly abated when the negotiations were resumed and it was believed that a settlement would be reached before night so that the agreement could be ratified by the general committee tomorrow morning before the anthracite conferences are resumed.

DIED.

PETTIT—In this city, March 5, 1916, Amanda Richardson, wife of the late John Pettit.

Funeral services from residence, No. 186 Main street, on Wednesday at 3 p. m. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

SILENT BANQUET HELD SUNDAY

Something unusual in the way of banquets was that given Sunday at Fischer's Hotel on the Strand when a number of deaf mutes residing in the Hudson river valley held a get-together meeting at the hotel and were served with an elaborate banquet in Mine Host Fischer's best style.

Although Mr. Fischer is not an adept in the sign manual he had no difficulty in interpreting and satisfying the wants of his guests. This was the first time that a "silent banquet" was ever served in the hotel.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The interment of George W. Hendricks, who died in Jersey City Thursday, was made in the Main Street Cemetery, of Saugerties, Saturday morning. The deceased was 76 years of age.

Amanda Richardson, widow of the late John Pettit, died on Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter S. Darling, in her eightieth year. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. C. Beckman Janson and Mrs. Walter S. Darling, and one sister, Miss Mary Richardson, all of Kingston. The funeral will take place from her residence, No. 186 Main street, on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock. The interment will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Mrs. Henry Bill died Saturday evening at her home on Constantine, Michigan, after a brief illness. She is survived by her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Grogan, of Bath, Steuben county; five brothers, William H. Grogan and Leo V. Grogan, of this city, and John, James and Thomas Grogan of New York city, and one sister, Miss Mary Grogan of Bath. Her mother and brother, William H. Grogan, were with her at the time of her death, having left Kingston on Friday. The remains were taken to Bath, where the funeral will take Tuesday morning.

William Wirt Bailey, who died at his home in Middletown, Thursday night, in his seventy-second year, was a civil war veteran and well known as a railway mail clerk on the West Shore in charge of registered mail at Jersey City. Deceased was a member of Company K, 124th New York Volunteers, (the famous Orange Blossoms), having been mustered in a sergeant at Walkkill, August 15, 1862. He was wounded at Chancellorsville, Va., on May 3, 1863, and discharged for disability the following March. His recovery from the wound was remarkable as the bullet which caused the injury entered his head back of his right ear, passing through his mouth to emerge from the left cheek. The funeral was held today.

HOLBROOK'S SPECIAL DISPLAY.

New Baby at Van Wagonen's in Celebration of Baby Week.

This is Baby Week—and at the Van Wagonen store they are celebrating, of course. But Bert Holbrook, the display manager, looked so happy this morning that a Freeman reporter, who happens in occasionally in a search for news, concluded the arranging "Baby Week" displays was surely a joyous task for this store's decorator. The smile, however, proved to be entirely because of a very special 8 pound "display" that is not yet on view at the Van Wagonen store, but which arrived yesterday at Mr. Holbrook's residence on Ten Broeck Avenue. Most displays at Van Wagonen's are distinctly feminine, and so is this one, for Holbrook says "it's a girl."

Visiting Singers Entertained.

Sunday the Rondout Social Maennerchor entertained about thirty members of the Germania Society of Poughkeepsie. The visitors were met that afternoon at the West Shore station and escorted to Fischer's Hotel on the Strand where an elaborate banquet was served in Mine Host Fischer's best style. At the close of the banquet the societies entertained Mr. Fischer with a few vocal selections and then marched to the rooms of the Rondout Maennerchor where a program of singing and a social hour was enjoyed. Plans for the Memorial Day excursion and Coney Island in which these two organizations with the Newburgh Maennerchor will unite for a big time were talked over.

Old Fashioned Carnival Tonight.

As a climax to the many and successful socials given at St. Peter's Hall, an old fashioned carnival will end up the pre-lenten season tonight at 8 o'clock, and to continue till 1 a. m. This is the third season for this popular dance and will attract a large crowd, judging from past success and the demand for tickets. We are invited to come dressed in old fashioned, fancy and comical dress. Prizes will be given to those who excel. There will be a grand march, old and new time dances. Music by St. Peter's orchestra under the leadership of Prof. John Schwalbach. Tickets will include refreshments.

Middagh Says He Didn't.

This morning Mrs. Nellie Anderson of No. 119 Manor Avenue appeared before Recorder Lang at the city hall and lodged a complaint against Albert Middagh who she said

Straightening Children's Figures.

A governess at one of the English castles where Parker went with Cousin Margaret told her that she had to read aloud an hour every day while her charges were spread flat on their backs on blankets on the floor. This position rests and straightens the figure. It is wonderful, and strengthens the neck; in fact, adjusts the whole figure.—From the Delineator.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, March 6.—Clamp a wreath of laurel for bravery and gameness upon the brow of Ed. G. Barrow, the "Man Who Wouldn't Quit," the greatest little battler of them all.

It was Field Marshal Barrow and his little army of International Leaguers who had to bear the brunt of a battle in the great baseball war. No wing of the organized army was exposed to such a merciless attack by the Feds as were the Internationals. Their playing ranks were depleted time and again by the Federal raiders, and they were driven from two of their eight trenches, while a third—Buffalo—was rendered almost useless.

It seemed certain death a year ago for the Internationals to keep up the fight. They were forced to battle alone against the huge portion of the Federal army. They sent repeated calls for assistance to their associates but those folks were too busy defending their own interests to rush reinforcements to the beleaguered Internationals.

The Courage of Barrow.

Frequently, during the days when the Internationals seemingly were being crushed by their Federal foes, some of Barrow's lieutenants were willing to surrender rather than risk utter annihilation. But Barrow scorned such a thought.

"We'll win out yet," he roared. And they did.

To review the baseball war is to realize more and more the wonderful fight that Barrow and his associates put up against fearful odds. Over a stretch of two years they fought with their backs against the wall; fought when it seemed there was not the slightest chance in the world of their winning out. They fought gamely, courageously and in a way that has won for them the admiration of the baseball world.

Internationals Suffered Most.

The most terrific of the Federal onslaughts were delivered at the Internationals. The "outlaws" drove the minor leaguers out of two of their strongholds—Baltimore and Newark. They invaded Buffalo, competed with the Internationals there, and practically killed the International attendance.

Another blow was dealt by the European war. It affected attendance throughout the circuit. But in Toronto and Montreal—two of the best cities in the Barrow circuit—the gate receipts shrunk to almost nothing. The Canadians are too busy with the war to think about baseball.

The Federal raiders took many of the International stars. Those who remained "faithful" had to be paid huge, almost ruinous, salaries. With the salary list top-heavy and the gate receipts far below that in other years, the Internationals finished the 1914 season in a bad way.

Rallies His Men.

When it came time to open the 1915 season, and the Feds still were among those present, breathing new threats of raids and invasion, Barrow found that he was almost alone in his anxiety to keep up the fight. Some of the magnates, who had suffered huge losses in 1914, didn't fancy renewing the battle and enduring more financial jolts.

But Barrow rallied his men. "Don't quit now, boys," he ordered.

dered. "You've suffered during 1914, and you may do a little more of it in 1915. But there's an end to all things—and I guess 1915 will mark the end of the Feds. Then prosperous times will be ahead for us. Stick to your colors—and you'll win out in the end."

Battle is Won.

Barrow's enthusiasm, his optimism and his fighting spirit again filled those International magnates, and when he gave the order to "charge," they followed him into that 1915 fight.

The war is over—and the Internationals still live. They exist today primarily because of the stout-heartedness, never-say-die spirit of their leader, and because there were in the ranks men who are sportsmen—who took a chance on going bankrupt in their efforts to win an honest fight; men who fought a gallant battle and won.

MARBLESTONE CONVERTED.

Special Sale so Good He Will Continue Another Week.

Herman Marblestone, the Wall street clothier, is so well pleased with the results of the Prosperity Week sale that he will continue it for another week. Mr. Marblestone does not believe in special get-together sales but went into the Prosperity Week sale and advertised in the Daily and Semi-Weekly Freeman and never in the history of his business has Marblestone's store had such a rush of business. Mail order and telephone orders were received from throughout the country and many requests were made to continue the sale so out of town people might attend. This request has been complied with and the sale will be continued for another week. Mr. Marblestone has placed Prosperity Week posters in the windows of his store as a guide to buyers who wish to participate in the bargains.

Although many other stores did a good business during the week it is doubtful if any did the business conducted by Marblestone whose advertisements will again appear in the Weekly and Daily Freeman.

EMILIO PALMERO.

PALMERO LOOKS AS IF HE WILL MAKE TEAM THIS YEAR.

Marlin, Tex., March 6.—Emilio Palmero, the Cuban southpaw whom John McGraw signed up a couple of years ago, and who has been relegated to the minors each season, looks as if he would become a regular member of the Giants this year. He number of games in Havana this winter.

When Palmero first joined the Giants he showed much promise but failed to make good with the team. Each spring he has joined the team at Marlin, but has been shifted to the minors at the opening of the season.

Servants in Germany

How the servant question is handled in Germany is told in George Stuart Fullerton's book, "Germany of Today." "In Bavaria, if I wish to get rid of a servant, I must give her notice on or before the 15th of the month, the notice to take effect on the first of the month following. I must allow the servant in the two weeks intervening a certain number of outings to look for another place. If I delay my notice until the 15th I must tolerate the unwelcome domestic for six weeks longer. Should I prefer to get rid of her at any price I must pay her, not merely her wages, but also a sum to cover her board and lodging up to the legal date. Such legal provisions may easily be an annoyance to the employer. It is not all employees who seem to deserve so much consideration. But it is surely better that the well to do should suffer some inconvenience than those who have their daily bread to earn should run the risk of being brought to distress."

For Conserving Heat in Pipes.

An excellent covering for steam pipes may be made from materials that are always available. Take some fine sawdust and screen it through a sieve to remove any foreign bodies. Prepare a thin paste of flour and water and mix the sawdust thoroughly with this paste. With a small trowel the mixture so prepared should be applied in about five coats to the steam pipes while they are slightly warm. Each coat should be thoroughly dry before the next is applied. If the steam pipes are in an exposed situation three or four coats of coal tar should be applied after the paste has dried. If inside a building this waterproofing is unnecessary. Steam pipes treated with the sawdust as above lose very little heat.—Popular Science Monthly.

Copyright 1916 General Roofing Mfg. Co.

You can identify CERTAIN-TEED Roofing by the name, which is conspicuously displayed on every roll or bundle. Look for this label, and be satisfied with none that doesn't show it.

CERTAIN-TEED is made in rolls, also in slate-surfaced shingles.

There is a type of CERTAIN-TEED for every kind of building, with flat or pitched roofs; from the largest skyscraper to the smallest residence or out-building.

CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to ply (1, 2 or 3). Experience proves that it lasts longer.

Efficiency built the Panama Canal, after inefficiency failed. The efficiency of Panama doubled the effectiveness of the U. S. Navy without adding a ship to it. It took over 8,000 miles out of the trip from New York to San Francisco, and changed the highway between London and Australia from Suez to Panama.

Efficiency insures against lost motion—it produces the utmost service out of equipment and yields the finest product, at the least cost.

Certain-teed

Roofing

is an Efficiency Product

Every advantage that men, money and machinery can offer is used to increase the production, maintain the quality and lower the cost. Each of the General's enormous mills is advantageously located to serve the ends of efficient manufacture and quick distribution. Each is equipped with the most up-to-date machinery. Raw materials are purchased in enormous quantities and far ahead of the needs of manufacturing, thus guarding against the increased cost due to idle machinery. This also insures favorable buying, and the pick of the market.

Expert chemists at each mill are employed to select and blend the asphalt, and every roll of CERTAIN-TEED is made under their watchful care.

CERTAIN-TEED resists the drying-out process so destructive to ordinary roofing, because the felt is thoroughly saturated with a blend of soft asphalt, prepared under the formula of the General's board of expert chemists. It is then coated with a blend of harder asphalt, which keeps the inner saturation soft. This makes a roofing more pliable, more impervious to the elements than the harder, drier kind.

Harboring Pain.

A Japanese proverb says: "When you take poison, don't lick the plate." How much happier a place the world would be if that advice were taken! The principal reason the lower animals suffer less than man is that they do not think about their sufferings.—Harper's Weekly.

Status of the Selfish.

A selfish man is one whose purposes interfere with your own selfish interests.

Indians as Slaves.

That a large number of Indians were once held in slavery at a settlement on Gray's harbor, Puget sound, a fact not generally known, is recalled by the death there of Schickulaah Pete, former slave and ancestor of the multitudinous "oldest residents of the Northwest," having lived 110 years, more or less.

Optimistic Thought.

What man calls instinct in a beast is more excellent than reason in a man.

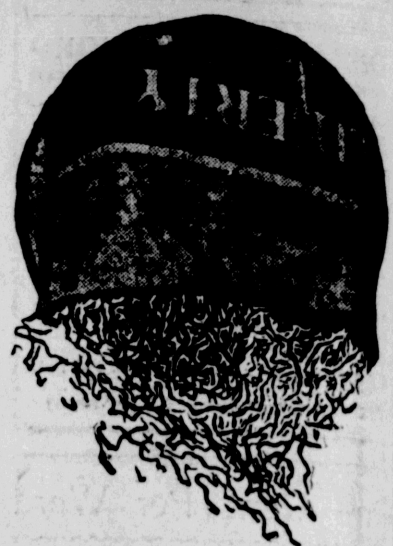

A Smart Woman.

A woman newly elected to a county office in a Western state has distinguished herself by passing around a box of cigars that could be smoked. She has learned the first principle in the code of the successful candidate, that only genuine, smokable cigars can be depended upon for strengthening political popularity.

Lines to Be Remembered.

All the beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single lovely action.—Lowell.

LIBERTY is all silky Long Cut like this—

Contains no loose, hard stems like this—

LIBERTY comes only in long, silky shreds, because only long, unbroken leaf is used in making it.

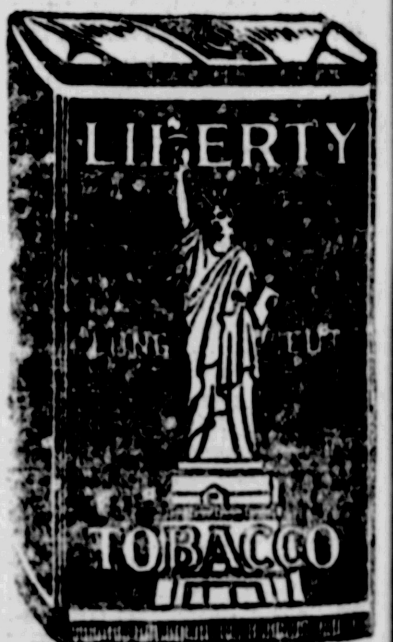

That means LIBERTY is a real long cut.

And LIBERTY is absolutely free from loose, hard stems—they're picked out by hand.

That means LIBERTY is real tobacco.

LIBERTY packs right down into your pipe for a cool, slow-burning smoke. Or rolls into a wad of juicy sweetness for a husky, lasting, man-size chew.

LIBERTY is made of full-bodied, full-flavored Kentucky tobacco. And the ageing we give this rich leaf—up to five years—puts a satisfying relish into LIBERTY that just suits hearty chewers and smokers from the ground up.

When a man who knows a man's tobacco gives LIBERTY the once over he sticks to it for keeps. So will you.

PASTOR WILHELM HAS RESIGNED

At the Sunday services at the Immanuel Lutheran Church on Livingston street, the pastor the Rev.
Frederick P. Wilhelm, announced his resignation to take effect shortly.

PASTOR WILHELM

after Easter, as he has accepted a call to take charge of the organization of a Lutheran congregation and the building of a church in Bronxville, Westchester county.

The church at Bronxville will be organized immediately and it is being built for the faculty and student body of the Concordia Evangelical Lutheran College. This college prepares the young men for their course of training for the ministry in the theological seminary at St. Louis.

Pastor Wilhelm assumed the pastorate of the Livingston Street Church in 1907, and under his efficient pastorate the church property has been renovated and a number of improvements made, creating an indebtedness of over $5,000, which has been practically cleared up, leaving a balance of about $600. The church since Pastor Wilhelm assumed charge has become one of the most important in the city.

Pastor Wilhelm is a graduate of the St. Louis Theological Seminary and after his ordination he became field secretary of the M. C. A. and later he became pastor of a large church in Cleveland, Ohio. He then became pastor of a large church at Bridgeport, Conn., later coming to this city.

When the Kingston Branch of the American Independence Union was organized he was elected president, which office he still holds.

Just who will succeed Pastor
Wilhelm at the Livingston Street
Church is not known as yet.

Since Pastor Wilhelm assumed the pastorate of the local church he has made a host of friends not only among his own congregation, but the city at large. He will assume his new duties shortly after Easter Sunday.

Athletics at Y. M. C. A.

Another fast game of basketball was staged at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening when the Employed Boys defeated the Central Five by a score of 24 to 21. The employed boys were McVie, McGinn, Carrington, McHugh and Rhymen, while the Central's were Hughes, Cannon, Gentry, J. Rourke, Leffgen and Rourke.

Wednesday evening another fast game will be staged at the association when the Employed Boys will play Ellenville. The game will be called at 8 o'clock and a small admission will be charged.

Wednesday evening another match game in the Y. M. C. A. Church's Bowling League will also be rolled when the teams of the Rondout,
Preston and Church and the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will clash.

Preparations are already underway for the big circus to be given in the association gym on April 25 and 26. This circus will be even better than that of last year.

Competition.

Competition begins in the schoolroom, when each child is made to feel the honor of being at the head of his class. Only the one who knows the lessons best can go to the head of the class. Those who fail descend the line one by one, until the one who has made the worst mistakes rests at the bottom.

OUR Prosperity Week Sale

Kuppenheimer and United Suits

Was one of the most successful sales we ever held. We had so many phone calls asking if we would have it another week. So we have decided to continue it another week to give everybody an opportunity to get one of these high class Kuppenheimer or United Suits at Prosperity Sale
Prices and save from $5 to $7 on a high grade suit. All Spring weight suits in this sale: blues, blacks, browns, gray, fancy mixed, all colors and styles.

YOU BIG FELLOWS

That wear a 44, 46, 48 or 50, come and get a suit at these prices. You are just as welcome as the little fellows that wear a 34. We can fit you.

Look Trouble in the Face.

It is well to learn to look physical trouble in the face; to cheerfully order one's life for better living, without making too much fuss about it; to take care of one's health as a simple obligation to one's self, to one's family and to the community; but not to regard every ache and pain as a national calamity.

All, All Alone.

J. Fuller Gloom: "So many people differ with me on practically everything I advocate that I often feel like a single noodle or sense aloft in an ocean of idiocy."

Some Symphony Concert.

A Bangor (Me.) woman, who had occasion to visit an office in the building in which a poultry show was being held one afternoon, heard the noise and innocently remarked: "Why,
I didn't know there was a symphony concert this afternoon." She thought the musicians were tuning up in the corridor back of the stage.

Only on the Stage.

Husbands have become so kind and considerate that a woman has to go to the theater in order to realize how tyrannical and cruel society is toward her sex.

Optimism.

The spirit which is whole has no room for the suffering of fear. It can meet life and do battle with it cheerfully; work and friendship and the daily round of events fill it to the exclusion of all phantoms; it is a joy to overcome obstacles, to right mistakes and to endure hardships in the hope of better days to come.

Write Orders to Your Children.

Telling my children what I want them to do I write it down, numbering each item. I do not hear any complaint, and the work is well done.—
Mother's Magazine.

Love Flies From Demand.

So far from there being anything divine in the low and proprietary "Do you love me?" it is only when you leave and lose me, by casting yourself on a sentiment that is higher than both of us, that I draw near, and find myself at your side; and I am repelled, if you fix your eye upon me, and demand love.—Emerson.

Good Bluff.

Not every man can own an auto, but every man can go about deploring the price of gasoline and letting others draw their own conclusions.—Milwaukee Journal.

"THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE"

"THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE"—Synopsis:

Hudson Maxim, international authority on arms and ammunition, delivers a lecture graphically describing America's defenseless condition.
John Harrison, inspired by Maxim's disclosures and realizing the awful consequences to which our national unpreparedness may lead, resolves to organize his every effort to the cause of a league defense. He is engaged to Virginia Vandergriff, whose father is an advocate of national armament and peace at any price. John makes a fruitless effort to show Vandergriff the fallacy of his stand. Vandergriff's friend, Emanon, disguised as a peace propagandist, but in reality a foreign spy, is the head of a band of conspirators plotting the invasion of America. The invaders approach New York. The news reaches a huge peace meeting at which Vandergriff is a speaker. In the midst of this meeting a shell crashes through the walls of the building. The battleships of the enemy, out of range of the guns of Forts Hamilton, Hancock and Wadsworth, are able to bombard New York.

Shells are devastating the buildings in the downtown district.
Homes are devastated; citizens slain without mercy. Terror reigns.

John's mother and sister are killed. Vandergriff is shot in the street.
John is bayoneted in defense of the girl he loves. As a climax to the horror, Virginia's mother, to avoid disgrace at the hands of the enemy, kills her two daughters and herself.

An allegorical masterpiece is shown contrasting Columbia, crushed, trampled and trampled upon by a merciless foe with Columbia as she should be—proud, conquering, supreme.

"Yes, there shall be peace—but peace with plenty—peace with honor."

(By La Reconcense.)

The extreme turned up brim as shown on many of the dresses created by Georgette, affords a charming frame for the face of the wearer, possessing piquant features. The hat is ostrich, with the turned up brim is softened by the ripples that are set in it. It is developed in navy straw and faced with satin in a main, up down.
Clusters of ostrich tips in flesh color afford a smart note.

BAKER-FORMAN DISPUTE ARGUED

Judge Hasbrouck Reserves Decision on Complications Growing Out of the Sale of the Wolven Store Property on Wall Street.

The dispute between Max Baker, Frank Forman and the Shatemuck Realty Company over the terms of sale of the William Wolven store, in which an application was made for an injunction to restrain the sale of the property, stock and fixtures to anyone except Baker, was argued before Judge Hasbrouck at supreme court chambers at noon today by City Judge William D. Brinnler, Jr., for Baker; Judge Van Etten for Forman and the Shatemuck Realty Company, and Judge Clearwater for Mrs. Ella Wolven England, the present owner who is under contract to sell to the Shatemuck for $33,500, of which amount $13,500 already has been paid to her.

Forman Did Not Want Competition.

Baker's claim in regard to the negotiations by which he expected to come into possession of the property, and the refusal of the Shatemuck Realty Company to deliver it to him, and Frank Forman's refusal to furnish $3,000 on second mortgage, have been stated in The Freeman several days ago. In addition, Mr. Brinnler read to Judge Hasbrouck an agreement which was presented to Baker on February 25th, by the terms of which he was to pay the Shatemuck Realty Company $500 for its commissions and services, and was to pay $33,500 for the property, stock and fixtures.

A provision of the agreement states that no ladies' suits, coats or furnishings shall be sold on any part of the premises for a period of ten years without the permission of the Shatemuck Realty Company. Mr. Baker refused to sign this agreement because, he says, the original agreement made with the Shatemuck Realty Company and Frank Forman provided only that the store should not be conducted as a ladies' cloak and suit store for that period.

Both Parties Sought Same Agent.

Judge Van Etten said that both Baker and Forman had sought the Shatemuck Realty Company to negotiate for the sale of the property. The company's officials, Schuyler C. Schultz and Arthur J. Burns, brought them together to discuss terms of sale, but no price could be obtained from Judge Clearwater, who represented Mrs. England, until the inventory was completed.

At the joint interview between Forman, Baker, Schultz and Burns, Forman expressed willingness to buy the property and Baker said he had been trying to establish his crockery store there.

Forman said he was interested in getting a first class store there, and one which would not be a competitor in his own line of business. Both Baker and Forman agreed that such a plan would be satisfactory to them.

Forman Acts On Own Judgment.

When they began talking about the price, Baker thought the store, stock and fixtures could be purchased for $28,000. When that proposition was made to Judge Clearwater, he said he already had an offer of $31,500, whereupon the Shatemuck officials consulted Baker and Forman. Baker said he must consult his wife. Forman stated that if he wanted to buy the property, he would not consult his wife, for she would be satisfied with his judgment, but it was agreed to wait twenty-four hours. Baker said he had $4,000 in Kingston banks and $3,000 in Brooklyn banks; he wanted the Shatemuck Company to procure someone who would advance $12,000 on first mortgage and wanted Forman to advance $8,000 on second mortgage.

Did Baker Get "Cold Feet?"

Baker at that time, said Judge Van Etten, said that if the price went above $32,000 they could "count him out."

To this, Forman remarked: "What's the matter, Baker, are you getting cold feet? If you can't get the place for $32,000, I'll go more than that, and here's my check for $3,000 now."

Forman, said Judge Van Etten, would have been willing to go considerably higher than $33,500.

Closing Deal on Short Notice.

Schultz took Forman's check for $3,000 to Judge Clearwater, who wanted $35,000 for the property. Mrs. England was consulted and Judge Clearwater finally agreed to accept $33,500, but announced that if the offer was not accepted before the Shatemuck officials walked out of his office, the offer didn't hold good. Schultz consulted Forman and turned over the check to Judge Clearwater. The affidavits of the Shatemuck Company, he said, stated that they bought the property as agent for Forman, as Baker had not authorized them to pay more than $32,000 for it.

Did Baker Want to "Come Back?"

When Baker learned that the property had been sold, said Judge Van Etten, he tried to come back and renew negotiations. Forman was then willing to allow him to take the property and to advance the $3,000 on second mortgage, provided Baker would agree not to sell any ladies' suits, coats or furnishings for ten years, but Baker refused to sign that agreement. The stock in the store consisted largely of winter and spring styles, which should be sold at once and delay in selling them meant loss.

Wolven Had Lucrative Business.

Judge Clearwater reviewed briefly the propositions which had been made to him as counsel for Mrs. England and said that Mrs. England had not the slightest knowledge of who the purchaser was until she was served with papers in the present action commenced by Baker.

In reference to the offer for the store, stock and fixtures, Judge Clearwater said the business had been much more lucrative than any one imagined. William Wolven at the time of his death left no unpaid bills for goods and all his stock was paid for, and his total indebtedness amounted to less than $1,000, to pay which were bank deposits for eight times that amount. The inventory showed the stock to be worth $17,649 at cost price, and much of it had been bought for spring sales.

Of the $33,500 which the Shatemuck Realty Company had agreed to pay her, the sum of $13,500 already had been paid, and she expected that the balance of $20,000 would be paid by March 10th, in accordance with the contract of sale.

Only One Point: Decision Reserved.

Judge Hasbrouck said the entire point of the controversy was whether Baker was in on the $33,500 offer. Mr. Brinnler said the statement that Baker had refused to go above $32,000 was news to him and he wished to submit affidavits on that point. As to Baker having cold feet, he remembered speaking of that when Baker, Schultz, Burns and Forman were at his office, and asking Baker about it. Baker replied that if the price went to $35,000 or $36,000 he was not in it. If the Shatemuck Realty Company had been acting as agent for Forman, why, he asked, was the agreement submitted to Baker on February 25th, which Baker refused to sign because it was different from the agreement he had originally made with Forman?

Judge Hasbrouck directed that Baker had until Tuesday noon to submit affidavits, and that twelve hours would be allowed the other parties to submit replying affidavits. In regard to Mrs. England, he would see that she was not prevented from carrying out her contract by March 10th.

Billy Bryan in Town.

Charles Lay of Albany avenue bought at the big sale of trotters and pacers at Madison Square Garden, New York last week, the famous speedway pacer Billy Bryan, matinee record 2:12. He won a gold cup over Belmont Park track in 1913, beating Ashline 2:11 1/2 in 2:12 and 2:13. He has paced halves over the Philadelphia speedway in 59 seconds, and won a match once over the Brooklyn speedway in 1:01 and 1:03. Mr. Lay also owns the well known race horse Tara 2:20 1/4 and Buffalo Boy, the old time champion of the Buffalo speedway.

Old Homestead Officers.

The Old Homestead Club will hold an important meeting at the rooms on Tuesday evening, and all members are urged to be present. Elections of officers and other important business will come up.

UPWARDS OF 125 GUESTS AT DINNER

Heads of Transportation Companies to Meet With Kingston Business Men at Chamber of Commerce Banquet Tonight at the Stayv-Sant.

Heads of railroad and steamship lines serving Kingston will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce tonight at a Transportation Dinner to be served at the Hotel Stayv-Sant and the sale of tickets this afternoon indicated a gratifying attendance of 125 representative business and professional men of the city. Muller's orchestra will discourse music from 7 o'clock on and a reception will be tendered the guests at 7:30, with dinner at 8 o'clock.

President C. R. Leighton and the painstaking chairman of the social and transportation committees, L. F. Bannan and John B. Kearney, have given considerable time to the arrangements for the affair and it is expected that every appointment will be complete.

Several of the visiting officials will speak on the transportation situation affecting Kingston and its manufacturers. Among the speakers will be Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., Herbert R. Odell, of the Hudson River Steamboat Company, G. A. White, of the Hudson River Day Line; G. B. Tebow, of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company; W. R. Quackenbush, of the Ontario and Western Railroad; C. C. Howard and C. A. McMichael, of the New York Central Lines; Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, of the Sleighsborough ferry; H. H. Flemming, of the Ulster and Delaware railroad; the Kingston and Rhinebeck ferry and the Cornell Steamboat Company; and James F. Loughran, county superintendent of highways.

RIVER DRIVERS A BIT TOO CORDIAL

Near-Fights Over Fares Makes Hudson River Service Unpopular With Patrons—Old Man Run Down by One Jehu.

Complaints are being made by pedestrians crossing the river of the behavior of drivers looking for fares. When a passenger approaches the river on either shore there is a concert of demands for his fare and his baggage is almost taken out of his hands. One older man complained on Sunday that he was run down by one of the drivers after he had decided to walk across the river. He exhibited a bruised elbow. He said that in some instances the driver would ask a half dollar for fares once a person got aboard a launch.

Two other drivers became involved in a fight on the Rhinecliff side and to add to their troubles one of their horses ran away. A yelling mob of horsemen drove after the rig, which was finally caught by Charles Low, who jumped from his iceboat and got aboard the sleigh just before the horse reached the open water of the ice canal. Low did not get even a smile by way of reward for his plucky feat.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Andrew McMullen, of the town of New Paltz has been filed in the surrogate's court and a citation for its probate has been issued returnable March 20. To his grand nephew, Andrew Yeaple, the testator bequeaths the sum of $500, and the balance of the estate is given by the testator to his wife, Sarah J. McMullen, whom he appoints executrix. The will was executed June 19, 1915, and witnessed by John N. Vanderlyn and Kathryn V. Cumiskey. The value of the real estate is $2,000 and the personal property amounts to $450. John N. Vanderlyn appeared for the executrix.

Musical Evening at St. Joseph's.

Tuesday evening a fine program of musical numbers will be given at St. Joseph's Hall, beginning at 8:10 o'clock. The first half of the program will be given as a scene, "An Evening at Home," when the following soloists will appear: Miss Cusack, Miss Humphrey, Miss Heidecamp, vocal soloists; Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy, in a piano and banjo guitar number; Miss Mary Elizabeth Sullivan, who will give a reading, "In the Palace of the King;" Miss Gertrude Rafferty, who will give a piano solo. In the second half of the program, Mr. Riccobone will favor the audience with a "cello solo;" little Miss Emma Schmidt will give an exhibition of aesthetic solo dancing, with Miss Delta Boice at the piano; Mr. McCarthy will give a tenor solo; there will be another reading by Miss Sullivan; Miss Helen Dwyer will give a solo dance; and the program will close with an operatic selection, accompanied by piano, violin and cello, sung by a favorite soprano soloist of the city and closing with a chorus.

Five Births on St. Mary's St.

Harry Lipkin of No. 15 St. Mary's street is the proud owner of five lively little chicks that have just been hatched out. By the time that other common varieties of hens begin hatching their young Mr. Lipkin expects to be getting eggs from the new arrivals, provided they are not all roosters.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Loyal Friends' Aid Society will hold their regular meeting Tuesday evening, March 7, at the Hebrew school rooms, on Spring street. It is urged that all members be present as considerable routine business is to be transacted.

A linen shower and surprise party was given by Miss Emily Bracolly, in honor of Miss Rose Rafalowsky Sunday evening at her residence, 152 Broadway. Those who attended were Miss Rose Rafalowsky and her future husband S. Simon, Emily Bracolly, Betty Cohen, Sarah Jacobson, Sarah Yallum, Fannie Rosenzweig, Fannie Goldwasser, Fannie Kaplan, Esther Kaplan, Esther Silber, Etta Vogel, Etta Vogel. A very fine time was enjoyed by those present. The party broke up at an early hour to enable the guests to get to their respective homes before the cars stopped running and all voted Miss Rose Rafalowsky a very enjoyable host.

Master Oscar Richter was tendered a birthday party in honor of his thirteenth birthday the first of the month at his home. Games and music helped to make the occasion an enjoyable one. The game of "Donkey" was also played and first prize was won by Frederick DuBois and the consolation prize by Charles Brown. After the games and music refreshments were served. A pretty birthday cake with thirteen candles formed the center piece while the favors were place cards with shamrock, pipes and hats. The guests were Marion Rosa, Mary Kyer, Nellie Flunigan, Myrtis Knapp, Helen Richter, Donald Church, Frederick DuBois, Raymond Bishop, Kenneth Carson, Charles Brown, Ralph Flunigan, Alfred Flunigan, Herman Boyle, William Boyle and Leroy Richter.

Arthur Herschmann of New York city, the noted baritone concert and oratorio soloist, who so delighted Kingston music lovers when he gave a recital at St. Mary's Hall at a reception and musicale given by Mrs. A. V. Kenyon last year, has been spending the week end in town and has been the guest of Mrs. Kenyon. The Kingston Symphony Society has been greatly interested in Mr. Herschmann, especially since it has been known that he has been selected as the soloist at the famous Bach Festival at Bethlehem, Pa., an honor indeed coveted by oratorio soloists all over the country. On Sunday afternoon, Mr. Herschmann visited the rehearsal of the Kingston Symphony Society, held in Symphony Hall, and listened with gratified surprise to a second reading of the first movement of the Haydn Symphony to be given in the near future, by the orchestra. He expressed himself as indeed impressed with both the work and the seriousness of the musician and said that he had sung with more than one professional orchestra which could not begin to measure up to the musicianship of the Kingston orchestra. He heard them at a rough rehearsal. Then he gave the musicians a rare treat by singing several selections, for the musicians, including a solo from Haydn's "Orpheus," another selection from Robin Hood, and some shorter numbers. Mr. Herschmann's magnificent voice and ability charmed his hearers, and every effort will be put forth by the Symphony Society to secure Mr. Herschmann as the special soloist for the coming Spring Festival, when the Oratorio of Elijah will be given. Whether this can be accomplished will depend somewhat upon the patronage of the people of Kingston.

Robinson-Myer.

Luther Robinson and Miss Jennie Belle Myer were married by the Rev. Henry I. Hoag on Friday evening. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Myer of Livingston street, Saugerties, and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson of Flatbush. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are spending their honeymoon in Newburgh.

Whelan-Quinn.

Martin J. Whelan of Brooklyn and Miss Julia A. Quinn, of No. 4 Webster street, were quietly married on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at St. Mary's Church by the Rev. D. J. Gilmartin. The bridal couple left on the 1:17 o'clock train that afternoon for New York and Brooklyn, where they will spend their honeymoon. Both bride and groom have a host of friends who wish them a long and prosperous married life.

Leap Year Dance.

Friday evening a leap year dance was given at Mechanics Hall by the G. A. Club Girls which was one of the most successful events of its sort during the season. The music was furnished by Steve Miller's orchestra and they are to be commended for the excellent manner in which they played the various dances. The event is long to be remembered by those who were so fortunate as to attend. The Misses Helen Craig, Lena Kotler, Annabel Diamond, Maria Cobb, Carrie Cahill, Mrs. Randall Freer, Carrie Cism, Matilda Rice, Elizabeth Rieser, Carrie McCullough, Lillian Wolf, Edith Gakenheimer, Laura Gakenheimer, Helen Castle, Helen Diamond, Kitty Pecker, Lillian Keltis, Nora Hartman, Emma Dittmar, Miss Cahill, Hilda Keltis, Kathleen Deyo, Gladys Freleigh, Harriet Welch, Eva Palen and the Messrs. George Schantz, Lester Elmendorf, Milton Cole, Herman LaTont, Harry Rieser, William Michael, Abe Molyneux, James McKee, Robert Brown, Harold Byers, James Van Valkenburg, Louis Keeler, Fred Weber, Harry Weber, Thomas Holan, George Dittmar, James Cahill, Clyde Wood, Claude Van Buren, Clarence Rowland, Frank Rafferty, Herman Britcliff, Frank McConnell and Clarence Schoonmaker.

Aidala-Gentile.

A pretty wedding took place at St. Joseph's Church Sunday afternoon when Miss Rose C. Gentile, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gentile, of 554 Broadway, became the bride of Anthony Aidala, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aidala of New York city. The nuptials were performed by the Rev. Thomas B. Redden, assistant pastor of the church. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Gertrude Rieser. The bride was most charming in a gown of white crepe de chene and satin, with silver lace trimming. She wore a veil of white embroidered silk with lace trimming and carried a beautiful bouquet of white lilies of the valley and roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Angelina Catina, wore a pretty gown of white Georgette crepe and chiffon over pink trimming. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas. Harry Mavica of New York city and friend of the groom was best man. After the ceremony a wedding reception was held at Kennedy Hall on Broadway and Muller's orchestra furnished music. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aidala, Harry and Joseph Aidala, brothers of the groom and all from New York city, Frank Gentile, Miss Anna Naples, Miss Catherine Gentile, Miss Rose Gentile, Patrick Naples and Miss Mary Gentile. Both bride and groom have many friends who join in wishing them a long and happy married life.

Baby Week Entertainment.

Tomorrow, Tuesday, the lessons of Baby Week will be presented in picture entertainment, that will perhaps drive home the truths of the need of Child Welfare work, as nothing else could. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock—mark the time, please, 4 o'clock—the pictures and entertainment will be given at St. Mary's Hall, for the benefit of the school children of the entire city, the small sum of ten cents admission being charged. To begin with there will be lantern slides shown, that will picture many phases of child welfare work. This will be followed by a charming song and dance given by little Miss Helen Clark. Then will come the playette, "The Theft of Thistle-down," a lovely fairy production with a lesson to it. The little folks have been specially trained for this entertainment by T. H. Richards and Mrs. Vernon Hall. The Freeman has been asked to make the following correction as to the names of some of the little people taking part. Margaret Healey will be one of the cloud fairies; solo dances will be given by both Margery Richards and Robert Hart. Olive Marsh will be one of the queen's attendants. A full cast of characters appeared in The Freeman last week.

In the evening, the same pleasing and instructive program will be given and will be followed by dancing. Swartz's orchestra furnishing the music. The evening performance will begin at eight o'clock, and will also be given at St. Mary's Hall. In connection with the exhibit at the Federation House, it should be stated that Miss Barry, of the State Health Department, is now at the Federation House in full charge of a special exhibit, and will there give all necessary instruction to mothers, etc.

A large attendance at the entertainment tomorrow afternoon and evening will insure the necessary money to pay the expenses of Baby Week, and for further child welfare and public health work in the community.

The Coterie.

The Coterie met on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Flemming and held a meeting of unusual interest. Under the main topic of "Women in Social Problems," Mrs. Thompson had the only paper, on "Women Keepers for Women Prisoners." She told how the first discussion of any such need as women keepers for women prisoners, had been instigated by Elizabeth Fry, in 1817. This woman was a literary light of her day, and she vividly put before the public the horrors and needs of prison life, and especially the inhuman treatment of women prisoners. In spite of the discussion which she aroused, it had taken upwards of one hundred years to bring about any real reform. As potent factors in these recent reforms were named Mrs. Hodson, woman keeper of Sherborn, Mass.; Mrs. Welsh, in charge of the women at Auburn; Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, police commissioner of Boston, Mass., and Katherine B. Davis, police commissioner of New York city. Mrs. Thomas told most interestingly of the lives of these women, and of the wonderful reforms they had brought about, both as to sanitary conditions and educational and redemptive work. Mrs. Brown had the next paper, her subject being under the general topic, "Women in Science," "Women as Inventors." Mrs. Brown found, after careful investigation that women had contributed in only a small way to the inventions of the world. Records showed that out of 4,000 inventions only an average of 5 had been patented by women, and these were for the most part domestic articles, wearing apparel, etc., not anything really affecting the progress of the world. Mary Keys was cited as the first woman inventor, her invention being a weaving apparatus that had proven very useful. Mme. Herschel, also, in working with her husband, had invented some instruments used in astronomical work. This paper was also full of interest. Under the same general topic, Miss A. Fuller had a most excellent paper on "Madame Curie and Sophia Kavalzsky." She told of Madame Curie now a woman of but 48 years of age, who discovered radium, all first naming it cololum, after Coler. She also told of the many cures which she had effected throughout Bohemia, by means of the use of radium. She is the only woman who has ever held a chair in the University of Paris, and to her have been awarded the Nobel prizes for Sweden and France. A sketch of her early life, her love and her marriage. Together with her husband, Madame Curie has done a vast deal for the cure of many ills to which human flesh is heir. Sophia Kavalzsky, born in Poland, stands out as the most celebrated woman mathematician in the world, the peer and in some instances, the superior of great masculine mathematicians. Though living in a little Polish town, one hundred miles from a railroad, she was carefully taught by a Polish tutor, who early discovered her wonderful gift, and urged her fullest cultivation of her talent. Even as a child, she had shown much ingenuity and originality in the solving of difficult problems. With all her rare ability she is very feminine and retiring. She holds the chair of mathematics in one of the German Universities, and was the first woman holding a chair in the University of Stockholm. To her was given the Redden prize, but instead of making it five hundred dollars, the usual amount, it was made one thousand dollars. As usual, the program was

Straightening Children's Figures.
A governess at one of the English castles where Parker went with Cousin Margaret told her that she had to read aloud an hour every day while her charges were spread flat on their backs on blankets on the floor. This position rests and straightens the figure. It is wonderful, and strengthens the neck; in fact, adjusts the whole figure.—From the Delineator.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)
New York, March 6.—Clamp a wreath of laurel for bravery and gameness upon the brow of Ed. G. Barrow, the "Man Who Wouldn't Quit;" the greatest little battler of them all.
It was Field Marshal Barrow and his little army of International Leaguers who had to bear the brunt of a battle in the great baseball war. No wing of the organized army was exposed to such a merciless attack by the Feds as were the Internationals. Their playing ranks were depleted time and again by the Federal raiders, and they were driven from two of their eight trenches, while a third—Buffalo—was rendered almost useless.
It seemed certain death a year ago for the Internationals to keep up the fight. They were forced to battle alone against the huge portion of the Federal army. They sent repeated calls for assistance to their associates but those folks were too busy defending their own interests to rush reinforcements to the beleaguered Internationals.
The Courage of Barrow.
Frequently, during the days when the Internationals seemingly were being crushed by their Federal foes, some of Barrow's lieutenants were willing to surrender rather than risk utter annihilation. But Barrow scorned such a thought.
"We'll win out yet," he roared. And they did.
To review the baseball war is to realize more and more the wonderful fight that Barrow and his associates put up against fearful odds. Over a stretch of two years they fought with their backs against the wall; fought when it seemed there was not the slightest chance in the world of their winning out. They fought gamely, courageously and in a way that has won for them the admiration of the baseball world.

Internationals Suffered Most.
The most terrific of the Federal onslaughts were delivered at the Internationals. The "outlaws" drove the minor leaguers out of two of their strongholds—Baltimore and Newark. They invaded Buffalo, competed with the Internationals there, and practically killed the International attendance.

Another blow was dealt by the European war. It affected attendance throughout the circuit. But in Toronto and Montreal—two of the best cities in the Barrow circuit—the gate receipts shrunk to almost nothing. The Canadians are too busy with the war to think about baseball.

The Federal raiders took many of the International stars. Those who remained "faithful" had to be paid huge, almost ruinous, salaries. With the salary list top-heavy and the gate receipts far below that in other years, the Internationals finished the 1914 season in a bad way.

Battles His Men.
When it came time to open the 1915 season, and the Feds still were among those present, breathing new threats of raids and invasion, Barrow found that he was almost alone in his anxiety to keep up the fight. Some of the magnates, who had suffered huge losses in 1914, didn't fancy renewing the battle and enduring more financial jells.
But Barrow rallied his men. "Don't quit now, boys," he ordered.

dered. "You've suffered during 1914, and you may do a little more of it in 1915. But there's an end to all things—and I guess 1915 will mark the end of the Feds. Then prosperous times will be ahead for us. Stick to your colors—and you'll win out in the end."
Battle is Won.
Barrow's enthusiasm, his optimism and his fighting spirit again filled those International magnates, and when he gave the order to "charge," they followed him into that 1915 fight.

The war is over—and the Internationals still live. They exist today primarily because of the stout-heartedness, never-say-die spirit of their leader, and because there were in the ranks men who are sportsmen—who took a chance on going bankrupt in their efforts to win an honest fight; men who fought a gallant battle and won.

MARBLESTONE CONVERTED.
Special Sale so Good He Will Continue Another Week.

Herman Marblestone, the Wall street clothier, is so well pleased with the results of the Prosperity Week sale that he will continue it for another week. Mr. Marblestone does not believe in special get-together sales but went into the Prosperity Week sale and advertised in the Daily and Semi-Weekly Freeman and never in the history of his business has Marblestone's store had such a rush of business. Mail order and telephone orders were received from throughout the country and many requests were made to continue the sale so out of town people might attend. This request has been complied with and the sale will be continued for another week. Mr. Marblestone has placed Prosperity Week posters in the windows of his store as a guide to buyers who wish to participate in the bargains. Although many other stores did a good business during the week it is doubtful if any did the business conducted by Marblestone whose advertisements will again appear in the Weekly and Daily Freeman.

EMILIO PALMERO.
PALMERO LOOKS AS IF HE WILL MAKE TEAM THIS YEAR.

Martin, Tex. March 6.—Emilio Palmero, the Cuban southpaw whom John McGraw signed up a couple of years ago, and who has been relegated to the minors each season, looks as if he would become a regular member of the Giants this year. He number of games in Havana this winter.
When Palmero first joined the Giants he showed much promise but failed to make good with the team. Each spring he has joined the team at Martin, but has been shifted to the minors at the opening of the season.

Servants in Germany.
How the servant question is handled in Germany is told in George Stuart Fullerton's book, "Germany of Today." "In Bavaria, if I wish to get rid of a servant, I must give her notice on or before the 15th of the month, the notice to take effect on the first of the month following. I must allow the servant in the two weeks intervening a certain number of outings to look for another place. If I delay my notice until the 15th I must tolerate the unwelcome domestic for six weeks longer. Should I prefer to get rid of her at any price I must pay her, not merely her wages, but also a sum to cover her board and lodging up to the legal date. Such legal provisions may easily be an annoyance to the employer. It is not all employees who seem to deserve so much consideration. But it is surely better that the well to do should suffer some inconvenience than those who have their daily bread to earn should run the risk of being brought to distress."

For Conserving Heat in Pipes.
An excellent covering for steam pipes may be made from materials that are always available. Take some fine sawdust and screen it through a sieve to remove any foreign bodies. Prepare a thin paste of flour and water and mix the sawdust thoroughly with this paste. With a small trowel the mixture so prepared should be applied in about five coats to the steam pipes while they are slightly warm. Each coat should be thoroughly dry before the next is applied. If the steam pipes are in an exposed situation three or four coats of coal tar should be applied after the paste has dried. If inside a building this waterproofing is unnecessary. Steam pipes treated with the sawdust as above lose very little heat.—Popular Science Monthly.

Efficiency

Efficiency built the Panama Canal, after inefficiency failed. The efficiency of Panama doubled the effectiveness of the U. S. Navy without adding a ship to it. It took over 8,000 miles out of the trip from New York to San Francisco, and changed the highway between London and Australia from Suez to Panama.

Efficiency insures against lost motion—it produces the utmost service out of equipment and yields the finest product, at the least cost.

Certain-teed

Roofing

is an Efficiency Product

Every advantage that men, money and machinery can offer is used to increase the production, maintain the quality and lower the cost. Each of the General's enormous mills is advantageously located to serve the ends of efficient manufacture and quick distribution. Each is equipped with the most up-to-date machinery. Raw materials are purchased in enormous quantities and far ahead of the needs of manufacturing, thus guarding against the increased cost due to idle machinery. This also insures favorable buying, and the pick of the market.

Expert chemists at each mill are employed to select and blend the asphalts, and every roll of CERTAIN-TEED is made under their watchful care.

CERTAIN-TEED resists the drying-out process so destructive to ordinary roofing, because the felt is thoroughly saturated with a blend of soft asphalts, prepared under the formula of the General's board of expert chemists. It is then coated with a blend of harder asphalts, which keeps the inner saturation soft. This makes a roofing more pliable, more impervious to the elements than the harder, drier kind.

LIBERTY is all silky Long Cut like this—

Contains no loose, hard stems like this—

LIBERTY comes only in long, silky shreds, because only long, unbroken leaf is used in making it.

That means LIBERTY is a real long cut.

And LIBERTY is absolutely free from loose, hard stems—they're picked out by hand.

That means LIBERTY is real tobacco.

LIBERTY packs right down into your pipe for a cool, slow-burning smoke. Or rolls into a wad of juicy sweetness for a husky, lasting, man-size chew.

LIBERTY is made of full-bodied, full-flavored Kentucky tobacco. And the ageing we give this rich leaf—up to five years—puts a satisfying relish into LIBERTY that just suits hearty chewers and smokers from the ground up.

When a man who knows a man's tobacco gives LIBERTY the once over he sticks to it for keeps. So will you.
